Bitter Struggle On Road To Madrid

REBEL ARMY REVERSED

But General Mola Still Confident

REVOLT NOT INTENDED TO RESTORE MONARCHY

Madrid, July 28.

Both rebels and loyalists are nearing exhaustion, following attacks and counter-attacks in the northern mountains. It is apparent that the rebels, despite their reversals, have successfully reformed their lines. However, the loyalists are apparently on the initiative.

Meanwhile, it is believed that General Mola, commander of the rebel armies of the north, is concentrating his greatest force in the region of the ancient, walled city of Medinaceli, 95 miles north-east of Madrid, and is preparing for a lengthy defence if this is necessary.

Rebels at Guadarrama proper are holding their positions on the far side of Guadarrama Ridge and are concentrating their strength in Somosierra Pass, on the road to Burgos and San Rafael, which lie on the way to Segovia.

Apparently the rebels' sole hope of a decisive success lies in a smashing victory at Guadarrama. But there is no sign that such is near.

In a radio broadcast from Seville, the authorities appealed to sympathisers in refuge at Gibraltar to bear arms instead of "hiding in idleness."

Meanwhile, Cabinet leaders and political figures, including the fiery woman Communist deputy, Dolores Ibarruri, continue to visit the front lines frequently, encouraging the loyalist fighters.

Renewed Attacks

On Monday the Guadarrama front witnessed new loyalist attacks on Somosierra, in which artillery and aircraft bore the brunt of the offensive. Infantry and machine-gun units were behind the artillery barrage, and they advanced without firing a shot.

Despite their success in capturing an apparently disastrous position, the rebels abandoned a considerable quantity of material, including twenty truck-loads of munitions and arms.

It is announced from the headquarters of the northern rebel army, that General Mola threw a picked regiment into the drive to retake Somosierra, and open the way to Madrid. The screams of wounded horses could be heard above the roar of field guns and the chatter of machine-guns and added to the horrors of the close hand-to-hand fighting.

Loyalist fighting planes continue to take heavy toll.

Still Optimistic

Despite reverses, General Mola continues optimistic.

He said he would reorganise his army after his arrival at Madrid and would make Spain a great nation under a strong military dictatorship.

"There is no question of restoring the monarchy. This is purely a purely Republican movement—nationalism against internationalism; Spanish tradition against Marxism," General Mola declared.

General Mola said he and his associates intended to dissolve the Loyalist Government, but the punishment of the loyalists would depend upon their attitudes.—United Press.

TROOPS PURSUE ARABS

HARD FIGHTING IN PALESTINE
POLICEMAN KILLED

(Special To "Telegraph")

Jerusalem, July 28.

The biggest engagement since the Palestine rioting started three months ago, has been in progress for the past fifteen hours and is still continuing, over an almost inaccessible section of mountain country north of Nablus.

A British constable and ten Arabs have been killed up to the present, and another constable has been wounded. One Arab has been captured.

The rebel band which is engaging the troops and police is estimated to be 100 strong.

Aircraft are co-operating with the large military force which is attempting to round up the Arabs. Planes have been machine-gunning the Arabs, and have accounted for the greatest number of casualties.—Reuter Special.

U. S. Steel Earnings

DIVIDEND OF ONE DOLLAR A SHARE

New York, July 28.

The United States Steel Corporation today declared a dividend of $1 per share on the preferred shares, doubling the previous rate.

The Corporation's net earnings for the second quarter were reported as $12,862,423, which is the best report since the depression and compares with a net loss of $702,403 for the corresponding period last year.

The net profit for the first six months of this year are reported as $16,238,729, as compared with a loss of $2,936,294 for the first six months of last year.

The second quarter's earnings are the equivalent of 75 cents per share, the first time since 1931.—United Press.

COAL-LOADING PLANT OPENED BY DUCHESS OF YORK

London, July 28.

The Duchess of York, accompanied by the Duke, today opened new coal-loading plant built at Hepburn by the Tyne Improvement Commission at a cost of about £250,000, and capable of loading 1,500 tons of coal per hour into ships.

His Royal Highness also visited Jarrold shipyard, now derelict, and made a tour of the town. The Duchess laid the foundation stone of a new Nursery School while at Hepburn.—British Wireless.

It appears that four hundred insurgents in Loyola barracks at San Sebastian, who had been surrounded for a week by Government forces, surrendered after a bombardment by machine-guns.

The prisoners said that their leader, Captain Ferrer, went mad during the siege and was shot by his brother officers. Captain Ferrer commanded the firing squad that executed the Republicans, Captain Galan, one of the leaders of the ill-fated revolt at Jaca five years ago.

Meanwhile, loyalist columns from San Sebastian and Irun are reported to be converging on General Mola's headquarters at Burgos, while another Government army is advancing westward along the coast and is reported to have taken up a position commanding Gijón, another insurgent stronghold.

In the midst of grim aspects, the situation had a lighter side when a Briton was detained as a spy, due to the fact that a brightly coloured map of the London underground railways was found on him. Fortunately, he was released at the request of a British Consul and suffered no harm.

Another incident was the rescuing by a destroyer of a British family holidaying at a small fishing village. When the villagers saw the vessel arriving to take off the family, they said: "Britain, must be a great (Continued on Page 4.)

LAW HOLDS KING EDWARD'S STRANGE ASSAILANT

George Andrew McMahon is charged with being in possession of a loaded revolver with intent to endanger life and property. He was arrested during King Edward's recent inspection of the Guards regiments, when His Majesty was riding at the head of the procession. McMahon pushed through the crowd and watchers perceived that he had a revolver in his hand. It was taken from him before he could use it. He said, afterwards, that he intended to kill himself.

Queen Mary's Sister Ship To Be Built

London, July 28.

The Treasury has announced its agreement to the plan for building another huge ocean liner for the Cunard-White Star line.

The new vessel will be a sister ship to the Queen Mary and her keel will be laid very shortly.

John Brown and Company, builders of the Queen Mary, will be the contractors.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

JOBS FOR THOUSANDS

London, July 28.

Mr. William Morrison, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, stated in the House of Commons that the Chancellor of the Exchequer had received specific proposals from the Cunard-White Star Company and had now agreed that advances should be made under the North Atlantic Shipping Act for building a sister ship to the Queen Mary.

The ship would be known as Number 502 while under construction, and give employment to about 7,000 men at Clydebank, and indirectly to about 300,000 others. Keel will probably be laid down at end of August. The new ship will be launched at the end of 1937 and be ready for the Atlantic service in the Summer of 1939, it is hoped.—British Wireless.

BRITAIN RETAINS DAVIS CUP

PERRY CRUSHES CRAWFORD

QUIST BEAT AUSTIN

Great Britain yesterday retained the Davis Cup after Australia had made a fine recovery and forced the issue to the final match.

In the first encounter of the day Adrian Quist beat H. W. Austin in four sets to make the scores two-all, but in the deciding match F. J. Perry easily beat J. H. Crawford in three sets, with the loss of only eight games.

Austin is described as being erratic against Quist and is said to have missed easy chances of winning, but Perry played flawless tennis to beat a bewildered opponent.

The Davis Cup thus remains in England for the fourth successive year.

Full description of detailed results appear on the sports pages.

SPEEDING TO RECORD ON SALT BEDS

Capt. George Eyston recently cracked all records for long distance driving, many of which were his own, when he and a relief pilot raced for 48 hours over the salt beds of Bonneville, Utah. His first record was for one hour's driving, when he travelled 168.5 miles in that period. But in the 48-hour marathon, two days and two nights of continuous strain, he broke nineteen world marks.

Refugees Tell Of Adventures In War Zones

FRIGHTFUL FRENZY OF RED MOBS

ENGLISHMAN HAS NEAR ESCAPE FROM TROUBLE

St. Nazaire, July 28.

Terrible stories of atrocities by the mob of Spanish radicals in San Sebastian are told by French refugees who have just arrived here. They had been holidaying in San Sebastian.

They said the corpse of a police inspector, who killed a girl during the previous labour troubles, was seized by the crowd of Popular Front people and mutilated, and then thrown up and down as though it were a football.

A French woman who was a resident of San Sebastian, but who fled after the mob had looted her house, declared that children were given loaded revolvers. They pointed them jokingly at passers-by, and sometimes they went off and someone was killed or badly wounded.—Reuter.

Englishman's Tale

Marseilles, July 28.

A thrilling story is told by an Englishman, Mr. Rowland Powell, who arrived here aboard the British destroyer, H.M.S. Gallant, from Barcelona, with 54 other refugees.

He said that the day after the big fighting in Barcelona, he was photographing the demolition of an Italian building, when half a dozen Reds rushed him. They poked guns in his ribs and smashed his camera.

The leader of the Reds' party was wearing a steel helmet, a blue singlet and no coat or shoes. Half a leg of his trousers was torn away and he brandished a huge sword.

Powell was taken to a Red headquarters. He told them he was a Briton, but they insisted he was a German. Finally, when he was escorted to his hotel and produced his passport, he convinced them of his nationality and was freed.—Reuter.

Lucky Lamb

Marseilles, July 28.

The revolt in Spain was a piece of good fortune for one Englishman, William Robert Lamb, who was recently sentenced at Barcelona to seventeen years' imprisonment on a charge of being concerned with the death of a cashier in a restaurant.

When all the prisons in Barcelona were opened during the fighting, Lamb walked out without being questioned and arrived here today on a British warship, where he was welcomed by his parents.—Reuter.

Exodus Continues

London, July 28.

Hundreds of foreigners are still leaving Spain. Over 800 arrived today at Marseilles, Bayonne, Lisbon and Genoa.

British warships have evacuated 785 persons from Catalonia alone since the trouble began. But the British Consulate at Marseilles says there are still 1,600 British subjects still in Barcelona.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

Leaving Madrid

Washington, July 28.

The American Consular authorities in Madrid have sent a message to the State Department to the effect that arrangements have been completed to evacuate from Madrid all the foreign population. They will leave for the Mediterranean coast on Thursday, but no details of the plan of escape are given.

It is presumed the foreign population has obtained the assurances of the Government that a special train and armed escort will be placed at their disposal.

U. S. S. Quincy has arrived at Alicante to embark Americans. The Quincy reports that having picked up two Americans on the way, she arrived at Malaga to find "murder and apprehension." However, the Americans there did not desire to evacuate.

U.S.S. Arkansas and Wyoming report they will arrive at Bilbao on July 29 and will continue their voyages as soon as a number of enlisted men are transferred to the Cayuga. (Continued on Page 5.)

Ethiopians Continuing Resistance

Addis Ababa, July 28.

Indicating that conditions in Ethiopia are still disturbed, an official communique states that a strong Ethiopian force, led by the son of Ras Kassa, attempted to cut the Italian communications between Addis Ababa and Dessaye.

The tribesmen were beaten off with the loss of 1,000 killed and wounded, the communique adds.—Reuter.

STOCK MARKET BULLISH

NEW YORK SEES PRICE RISE

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

New York, July 28.

Prices continued to advance on the New York Stock Exchange today. Sentiment continued to be bullish due to good second quarter earnings reports and prospects of increases in dividends.

Some foreign buying developed and the general trading tone was improved.

It was also reported that the aggregate railroad income for the year is likely to cover the fixed charges.

The Bond Market and issues on the Curb Exchange were generally higher.

Colour feathers . . .

HERE is a very pretty experiment, which has been used. Take up an other feather and hold it in the steam, and it will change into a fresh tint, but puzzle them as well.

For the purpose you will want three or four white feathers and several dyes in various colours. These dyes are often to be found about the house, but in any case small quantities can be purchased for a trifle.

Prepare the feathers for the experiment in this way: Sprinkle a little of the dye on a sheet of paper and then draw the feather lightly backwards and forwards over it. Then shake the feather, so as to get rid of any of the grains of powder which are lightly attached.

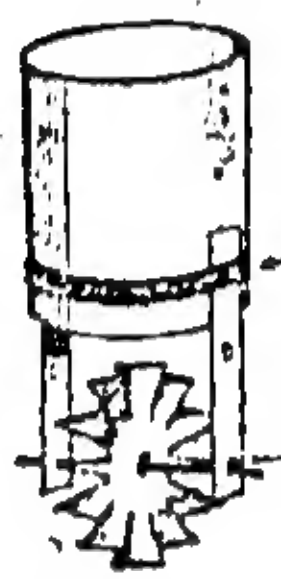

These will fall away, leaving the feather quite white to all appearance. As a matter of fact, there will actually be quite a number of specks of dye on the feather, although these are not visible. Each of the feathers is treated with a different dye, in the manner described.

To carry out what is really a very striking experiment, all you now need is a bowl of steaming hot water. Pick up a feather and, when the onlookers have seen that it is white, hold it in the steam.

In a few moments the warm dampness makes the grains of dye run, so that the feather turns a bright colour, according to the shade of the dye.

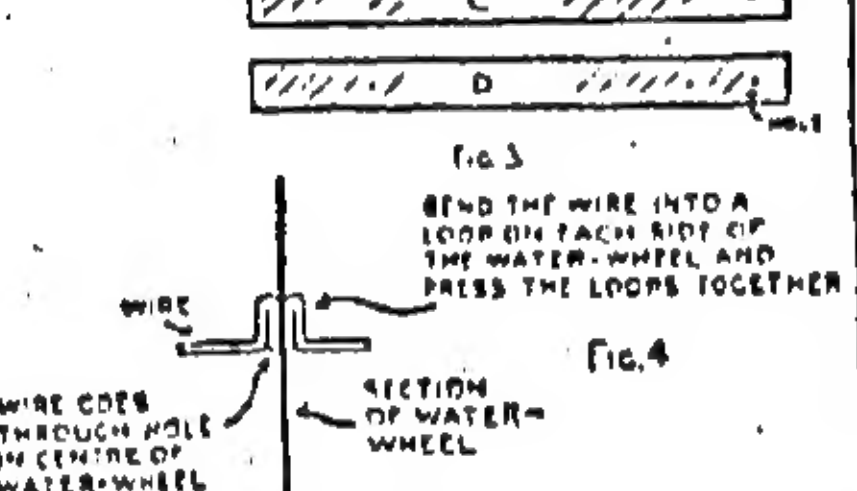

How to Make a

Model WATER-MOTOR from an old Tin-Can

THE water-motor shown in Fig. 1, can be easily made in a few minutes from an old tin can, some string and a piece of wire.

Begin by making the water-wheel or turbine from the lid of the tin as described at A and B in Fig. 2.

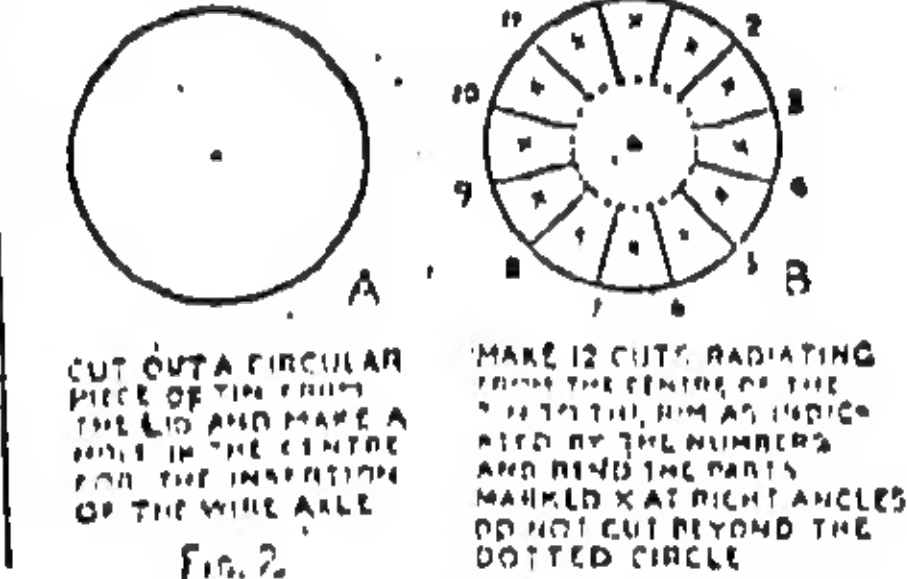

Then from the spare tin make the two pieces C and D (see Fig. 3) and fix them to the tin with string as illustrated in Fig. 4.

A brief study of Fig. 4 will show how to fix the water wheel to the wire axle.

When this has been done fix the axle, with water-wheel attached, can a grey, bright green and the wheel a contrasting colour—red, for example.

One end of the axle is inserted into a through the hole in D and the other very attractive and amusing toy!

through the hole in C (see Fig. 1). Now make a hole in the bottom of the tin, so that when it is filled with water the water will flow out and strike the blades of the water-wheel.

Remember that the hole in the bottom of the tin must not be too big. It should be small enough for just a steady trickle of water to come through and set the wheel in motion.

Such a model, which would make a lovely little present for a child, can be made in a very short time. When it is finished, paint the can a grey, bright green and the wheel a contrasting colour—red, for example.

GARDENING PAGE

Beginner's guide to

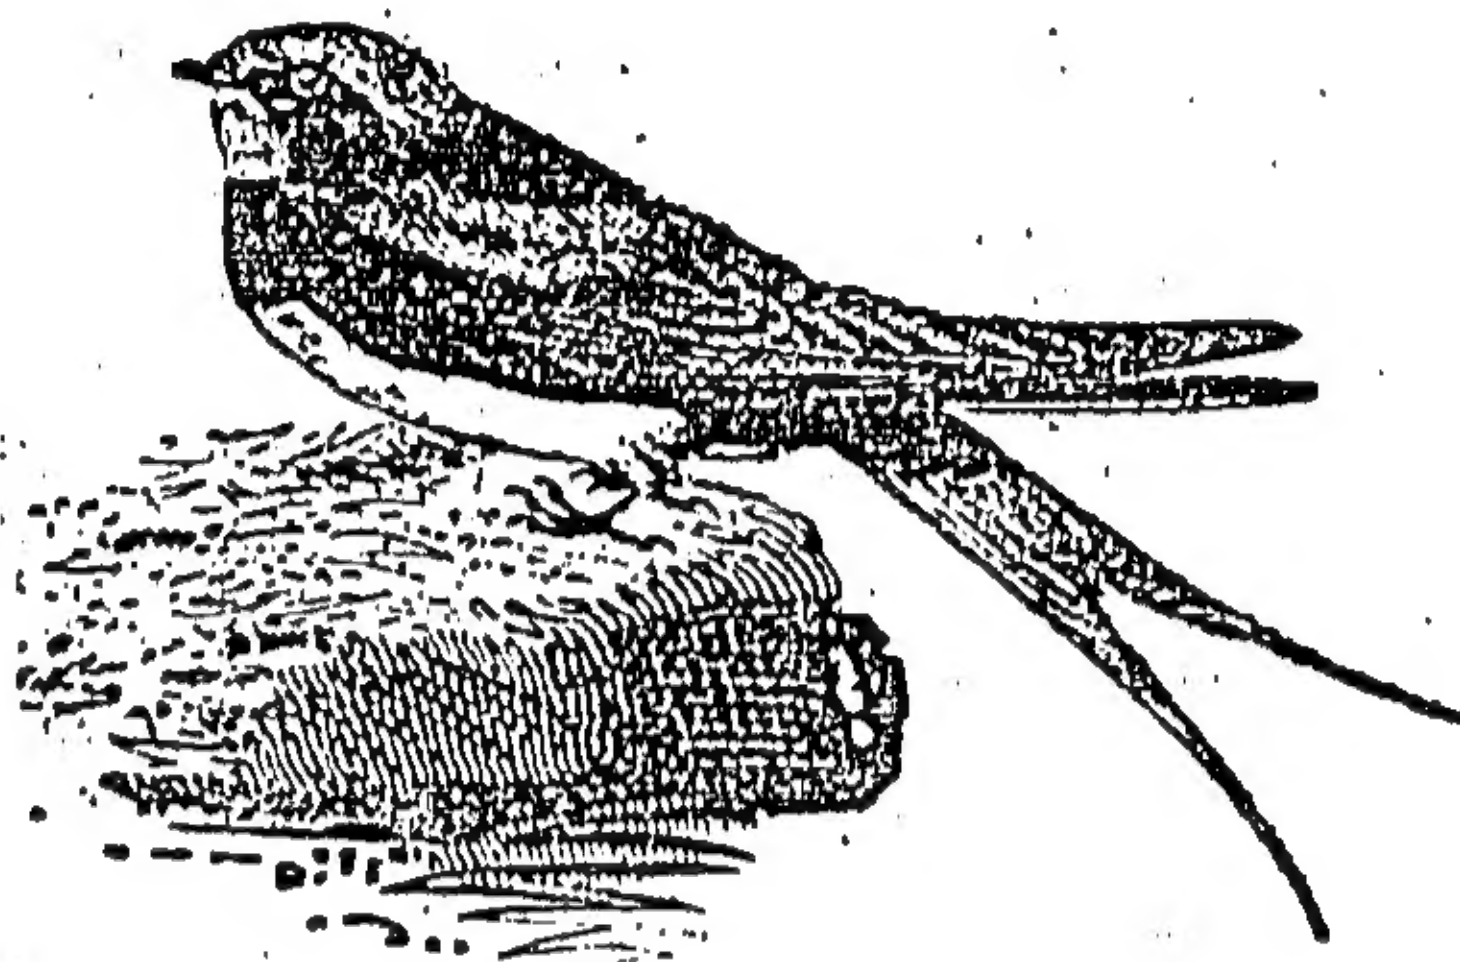

Garden Jargon

Sit while you weed . . .

HERE is a seat and weed-holder combined, made of antiride the flat top, drop weeds green-painted tin. You sit into opening in front. Rocking chair base means weeding without back-breaking.

Consider your verdict

THE SWALLOW FOR

Pretty and useful, swift-winged British visitor—arrival sign of summer, performs great service to the garden, catches flies and small beetles in enormously wide opened mouth while on the wing. Viscid saliva assists in retaining prey.

Has special liking for crane-flies (parents of leather-jackets), continually feeds and carries its prey to its always hungry young.

AGAINST

Builds mud and straw nests in roofs of houses, sometimes blocking ventilation holes.

EVERY occupation has a jargon of its own. The worst words in gardening are those which botanists disguise the beauty of the flowers which they name.

On the other hand, it has struck me that we horticultural hacks are apt to fling other words about too carelessly and pass on to the next subject without making ourselves plain to the inexperienced.

We say "stick this," or "mulch that," "thin out the other," or "hoe everything," and forget that the beginner, while understanding the language, may have only the vaguest idea as to all that these airy commands imply.

So this is where we explain ourselves.

WHETHER there is really such a verb in the language as "to stick" for "to stake" I rather doubt, but since it is the phrase commonly used in gardening, it will do for us.

Only market gardeners (for economy's sake) are allowed to grow peas without some kind of support.

Even the very dwarf peas which are advertised as needing no sticks are all the better if they have something to which they can cling.

Pea sticks are usually cut from live hazel and sold in bunches of twenty-five.

A line of peas is ripe for sticking when the plants are three inches high, or even less.

THE first thing to do is to refresh your memory as to your peas' height as given by the seedsmen.

Add a foot to this for safety's sake. It is a conservative estimate for the taller sorts.

With good cultivation, and in a favourable season, a five-foot pea can easily leap up to seven feet.

However, allowing this foot, and another foot for insertion in the ground, you will have to cut your sticks five feet long for three foot peas.

Cut a good bundle of them before you start any sticking, and sharpen the ends to a point with a bill-hook. Draw the earth up to your peas with the hoe and stir the soil well between them before any sticks are put in.

THE sticks should be so spaced on each side of the line that they form a continuous support for the peas without becoming a thick hedge which shuts out light and air from the plants.

For the same reason they should stand upright and not come together like a roof at the top.

They must be pushed firmly into the ground, for it is no use if they are blown flat by the wind after the peas have climbed the rigging, so to speak.

Plenty of black cotton should be twined along and across the lower part of the sticks, because sparrows and other birds are very fond of the young growths, and nothing frightens them so much as these invisible threads which pluck at their wings.

As a finishing touch, take the secateurs and snip off the untidy ends of longer sticks, so that the whole line is of uniform height.

The verb "to mulch" is a real one, and means "to cover with manure or loose material." There are two main times for mulching. One is in autumn, when the manure is spread round trees and plants and over asparagus beds to keep the soil warm and to protect the roots from winter's cold.

The other is in summer, when path-like lines of straw manure, grass mowings, or other litter are laid along each side of peas, beans, and other plants in order to keep moisture in the ground.

If the material used is sufficiently rich it also provides sustenance.

THE soil must be thoroughly weeded and stirred with the hoe before a broad and thick dressing of the mulch is applied.

In very dry weather, when it becomes necessary to give the lines a good soaking, the mulch is put on afterwards to keep the moisture in. The simple word "hoe" may seem self-explanatory. On the contrary, it deserves the best part of an article to itself. It will get it next week.

Fallen Giant

WHERE the upturned roots of the fallen elm face southwards the chalk which fills them glitters in the sunlight, and the white mound is fringed with the vivid gold of dandelions and the blue of wild forget-me-nots which cluster at its base.

On the other side the twin trunks of the prone tree are deep in shadow, and a dark fungus swells in hard knots along the cracking bark.

Lichen and moss and nettle are covering the wreckage, and all from its floor protrude small bits of skin and fur.

If one stirred the surface one would find the buried, half-eaten remains of lilyroot and rabbit, which are the hoarded treasures of the grey cat's lair.

OXFORD PROTESTS AGAINST NEW DON

Oxford, July 21.
INTENSE indignation has been aroused in academic circles here by the appointment of Professor E. R. Dodds as Regius Professor of Greek.

A number of informal protests has already been made to the Home Secretary, Sir John Simon, who is an Oxford graduate, and a group of classical dons is considering making a formal protest to the Prime Minister, who was responsible for the appointment.

The choice of Professor Dodds, who is 43, is challenged first of all because he was a conscientious objector during the war and holds advanced Socialistic views.

"MODIFIED MY VIEWS"
Professor Dodds, who occupies the chair of Professor of Greek in the local university said:

"I declined to take part in military work for two reasons—because I was an internationalist sympathiser and because, as an Irishman, I had no interest in the Empire as such during the war."

"I was never summoned for military service and I spent some time doing ambulance work in Serbia. Since the war I have modified my views, and I am to-day perfectly friendly towards Great Britain."

Asked whether he would now be prepared to fight in defence of the Empire, Professor Dodds, replied: "You cannot expect me to answer that question without thought. I have not yet made up my mind."

"Surely," he was asked, "anyone who is to occupy the most important chair of Greek learning in the world must have some convictions on so fundamental a topic?"

Professor Dodds reiterated that he had not made up his mind.

NO CLASSICAL BOOKS

It is also urged against Professor Dodds that he has spent all his teaching life in provincial universities, and that he has never published any book on the life or literature of the classical age of Greece.

Asked about this Professor Dodds admitted that he had never published any book dealing with these subjects. He has, however, contributed articles to magazines on Greek classical literature.

Herrings And The Safety Razors

London, July 28.
A new way of smuggling safety razor blades and scores of articles of drapery goods made in Japan was unsuccessfully tried out in Dublin this week.

Six large boxes labelled "herrings" arrived at a railway station at Dundalk, Irish Free State, from Belfast.

They were addressed to a person in Dublin. The Customs Officers were suspicious and in each case there was a layer of herrings, and underneath parcels of safety razor blades and scores of articles of drapery goods.

The value of the goods seized amounted to more than £100.

resident in Oxford whose claims to the professorship are considered by their colleagues to be far more compelling than those of Mr. Dodds.

These men have taught in Oxford for many years, have published authoritative works on the Greek classical period, and fought in the war.

The Prime Minister, in making the appointment, is thought to have acted on the advice of Professor Gilbert Murray, the retiring Regius Professor, who is well known for his enthusiasm for the League of Nations and all its works.

VOYAGE OF MANY ADVENTURES

Plymouth, July 21.

A fight on board with a mad-dened leopardess, a dying man taken aboard from another ship in mid-ocean, a dash to the aid of a stranded cargo boat.

These were adventures which befell the Elder Dempster liner Abosso, which arrived here to-day from West Africa.

The leopardess is one of two pets, Addis and Ababa, owned by Mrs. G. S. Browne, whose husband has just relinquished the post of Commissioner of Northern Nigeria.

COAXED INTO CAGE

"I was exercising Addis in the ship's hold when she tried to attack some seamen," Mrs. Browne said. "I could not hold her and she turned on me."

"Three of us struggled with her, but at last I managed to coax her back to her cage. It was the first time I have known fear in my life."

When near Sierra Leone the ship picked up a S.O.S. from the British cargo steamer Clangant, took an injured man, Abdull Hawik, aboard, and buried him at sea after every medical aid had failed to save his life.

The other S.O.S. was from a Swedish ship's stranded crew. The Abosso went back for them, but found the weather too bad to be able to give help.

Trans-Pacific Airways

San Francisco, July 21.
The creation of a trans-Pacific airplane service has automatically given rise to the problem of how to prevent the introduction into the United States, Hawaii, and other countries being aerially served of insects and parasites that might be detrimental to the crops of those countries.

These insects and parasites conceal themselves as stowaways on the airplanes in the same manner as they do on ships, and thus are carried unknowingly to other countries.

To meet the situation thus created four scientists have already been sent to the island of Guam, which is the largest of the trans-Pacific air bases, where a fight is being made to eradicate all detrimental plant parasites. Later these scientists will visit other air bases in the Pacific.

To date, these operating on Guam have reported that they have already found several types of insects and parasites never reported outside of the island.

In their efforts to eradicate the latter they not only work to meet the plant quarantine regulations of each port where the airplanes may stop, by preventing them from becoming stowaways on the airships, but also work in collaboration with the local farmers to eradicate the pests completely.

One of the scientists, E. H. Bryan, Jr., curator of the Bishop Museum at Honolulu, has already returned to his home post. Three others remain. These are Otto H. Swezey, entomologist of the Experiment station of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters Association; Mrs. Swezey and Roger L. Usinger, all of Honolulu.

CANE-FARMERS ANXIOUS

The sugar planters are especially anxious to prevent the introduction into Hawaii of any insects or parasites that might prove detrimental to their crops.

Bryan, who participated in the work of the entomologists, was originally sent to reorganize the museum of the Naval government.

He has just returned to Honolulu, after six weeks on the little Pacific island, and his report, which has just been received here, paints a glowing picture of Guam.

The latter he declares is a veritable paradise for naturalists. The island, according to Bryan, is larger than it looks on the map being 30 miles long, and from four to nine miles in width, with a total area of 225 square miles. Hills rise to an elevation of 1,300 feet.

"The island is partly of volcanic origin," Bryan reported, "and partly of raised coral formation. Some of the volcanic rock is overlaid with coral limestone, indicating that this island must have at some time been submerged. Much of it is heavily forested and feathered with giant palms."

BIRD LIFE DIES

"I listed 500 kinds of flowering plants and 40 kinds of birds," Bryan's report continued, "including a beautiful green and gold pigeon with purple topknot, white legs and fan-like flycatchers; also a bright red and black honey eater that resembles some of the forest birds of old Hawaii."

"Bird life, however, is being cut down by huge monitor lizards which

PROHIBITION REPEAL HAS COST AMERICA 10,000 LIVES

— Says W.C.T.U. PRESIDENT

Tulsa, Okla., July 21.
Three long years of repeal have cost America 10,000 lives, injuries to 350,000 persons and a money loss of U.S.$500,000,000, according to Mrs. Ida B. Wiso Smith, National president of the W.C.T.U.

Drunkness has been the scourge that took so great a toll, she said in an address before the 62nd Annual General convention of the organization.

Mrs. Smith reviews conditions in this country as follows:

"Hundreds of drink-cure institutions throughout the country, closed during prohibition, are being re-opened to care for the steadily growing number of legalised alcohol victims."

"Last year the people of the United States contributed more than $2,600,000,000 to the liquor makers and dispensers for their alcoholic wares. In 1936 the bill will run close to three billion dollars."

"Motor traffic deaths have increased more than 25 per cent. in the past two years."

"We are told that last year there were manufactured only enough children's overcoats, mackinaws, reefers and light coats to provide approximately one such winter garment for every 30 children, only enough coats and suits to meet the needs of one woman in three."

"OPPOSE 'TOLERANCE'"

Mrs. Smith called upon all members of the W.C.T.U. to oppose politicians who advocate "tolerance."

"A new danger which comes with the re-legalization of liquor in this mechanized age," she said, "is the moderate use of liquors."

"POISONOUS DRUG"

"Our educational programme must be based on total abstinence from a drug known to be poisonous and habit forming."

Discussing a peace programme, she said: "The United States signs pacts and treaties, but the 1936 appropriations for army and navy reach the billion dollar mark. We are opposed to such expenditures. We learned the sorry lesson that war cannot end war. Yet we are so in the grip of militarism, that, protest as we may, the people apparently cannot be heard."—United Press.

Twins Born With 4 Days Between

London, July 28.

To the wife of a London baker twin daughters have been born four days and eight miles apart—and the twins will celebrate their birthdays in different months.

Mrs. Ellen Abraham, aged 30 of Walthamstow gave birth on Tuesday in a Walthamstow nursing home to a baby girl weighing 3½ lb.

On Saturday in University College Hospital, Bloomsbury, another healthy girl weighing 4½ lb. more than her twin sister was born to Mrs. Abraham.

They will probably be named June and Julie.

Kowloon Problems Discussed

SPECIAL MEETING OF K.R.A. OFFICIALS

ALLOCATING DUTIES

A special meeting of the General Committee of the Kowloon Residents' Association took place on Monday evening in St. Andrew's Church Hall. Those present were: Mr. B. Wyllie (President), Mr. P. C. Mow Fung (Vice-President), Mr. R. Baldwin (Hon. Secretary), Mr. E. W. Gardiner, Rev. J. R. Higgins, Messrs. L. D. Almeida, C. Castro, J. P. B. Wilson, W. C. Felschow, F. H. Loebe, C. E. Terry, H. Gittins, A. Cheung, J. M. Alves, R. Pestonji and Dr. Ip Kam-wah. An apology for absence was received from Mr. Li Chor-chi.

OVERHANGING TREES

A letter from a member was read, drawing the attention of the Association to the unpruned condition of bushes and trees in gardens overhanging the footpaths at Kowloon Tong.

After discussion it was agreed to give publicity to this nuisance in the hope that those responsible would take steps to remedy it. Failing an abatement, the Association would bring the appropriate authority.

SUB-COMMITTEES

The following Sub-Committees were appointed:— Correspondence: The President, Vice-President and Hon. Secretary (ex-officio); Children's Playground: Messrs. F. H. Loebe, A. Cheung and Mrs. E. W. Gardiner; Street Lighting: Messrs. T. B. Wilson, Lam Ming-fan and I. N. Murray; Markets and Sanitation: Messrs. F. C. Mow Fung, C. E. Terry and Dr. Ip Kam-wah; Kowloon Historic Sites: Messrs. F. C. Mow Fung, I. N. Murray, Lam Ming-fan and W. C. Felschow; Bus Services: Messrs. H. Gittins, J. M. Alves and Rev. J. R. Higgins;
Representative on R.S.P.C.A.: Mr. R. Pestonji;
Representative on Playing Grounds Committee: Mr. Li Chor-chi;
Representative on N.T. Agricultural Association: Mr. Lam Ming-fan; Representative on Board of Education: Rev. J. R. Higgins.

OTHER MATTERS

It was decided that measures be taken to draw the attention of newcomers in Kowloon to the existence of the Association and a sub-committee was appointed to make suggestions in this connection. Arising out of the minutes of the previous meeting the Sanitation Sub-Committee was asked to report on the matter of inadequate surface drainage in the Carpenter Road area. Reference was also made to the practice of the China Light and Power Company levying deposits from consumers. It was decided to make the necessary enquiries and to bring the matter up again for discussion at the next meeting of the Committee.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY DEMOCRATS LOSE STRONGHOLD

Stonington, July 28. This normally Democratic community went overwhelmingly Republican for the second time in fifty years, when Mr. William Edgar was elected to a prison executive's post.

LOCAL WEDDING

MR. H. G. ASOME AND MISS D. M. LEE

The wedding was quietly solemnized at St. Teresa's Church, at 9 o'clock this morning, when Miss Doris Margaret Lee became the bride of Mr. Hugh Gregory Asume, a member of the staff of St. Joseph's College.

The Rev. Father P. Joy, S.J., officiated at the ceremony.
The bride, who is the only daughter of Mr. H. Lee and the late Mrs. H. Lee of Liverpool, England, is a teacher at the school run by the Sisters of the Immaculate Conception. The bridegroom, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Asume of Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, B.W.I., takes a keen interest in all sporting activities of St. Joseph's College, especially the College Cricket team.

Entering the Church on the arm of her father, the bride looked charming in a white satin gown trimmed with thin white roses. She carried a bouquet of white tube roses.

Miss Betty Ribeiro, as bridesmaid, wore a pink silk dress set off with a hat to match and carried a sheaf of pink gladioli.

Mr. C. N. Dragon, of the S. C. M. Post, undertook the duties of best man. Appropriate music was rendered on the organ by Miss Linda Gosano.

Among those present were the Rev. Brothers of St. Joseph's and St. Anne's Colleges, the lay staff of St. Joseph's College and a few intimate friends.

SETTLEMENT OF ASSYRIANS COMMITTEE'S WORK TO CONTINUE

London, July 28. The Archbishop of Canterbury raised a debate in the House of Lords to-day on the settlement of Assyrians in Syria and the decision of League Council that the scheme already approved must be abandoned. Lord Stanhope, replying for the Government, explained the circumstances in which the Assyrian Committee reached its decision to abandon the scheme for settlement in the Gub district in Syria, following representations from the French Government. The Council had requested the Committee to continue its work with a view to securing the settlement of Assyrians, and His Majesty's Government would give the Committee every support in its efforts. Satisfaction was expressed at the evident determination of the League Council not to let the matter rest, and the Archbishop withdrew his motion.

nation; she has one warship for one family.—Reuter Special.

No Decisive Victory

Madrid, July 29. The Spanish civil war has been enjoying a period of quiet. Three important operations are taking place but it is still a matter of days, or possibly hours, before their decisiveness can be realised.

In the south, rebel columns from the east coast of Spain are advancing on Seville, whose electricity and water supplies have been cut off from Malaga.
In the north, the forces of the loyalists are moving to attack Saragossa, and in the mountains north of Madrid a fierce battle between 12,000 militiamen and General Mola's rebel advance guard continues. The loyalists, despite the cold and rain, are pushing back the insurgents, who are calling upon General Mola for assistance. Several deputies and sixty bull fighters are among the Government troops, who were visited yesterday by the War Minister, General Coscolluela, and the Chief of Staff, General Caballero. The woman deputy, "Passion Flower" Dolores Iraruri, famous for her fervid Communist oratory, was another visitor.

One of the heroes of the mountain warfare is Captain Pulo Leo, who in a daring expedition blew up a rebel ammunition dump, causing a terrified retreat of this section of the insurgent army.
Cordoba, the next objective of Government troops, was bombed yesterday by aeroplanes.—Reuter.

Quitting Bilbao

The American Consulate in Bilbao reports that a British steamer on Monday evacuated 140 British subjects.

All Americans except one are preparing to leave when the U.S.S. Oklahoma arrives on her next rescue trip.

The Barcelona Consulate reports the situation unchanged in that area. There is no shortage of food or other necessities.

However, more churches have been burned and there is a certain amount of uncontrolled robbery and murder throughout the city. Americans are safe.—United Press.

Relieving Cadets

Washington, July 28.

The battleships Arkansas and Wyoming arrive at Bilbao to-morrow to take off coastguard cadets from the cutter Cayuga and to replace them with regular navy details.

The U.S. cruiser Quincey has arrived at Alicante and is awaiting the arrival of 148 American and other foreigners at present taking refuge in the American Embassy in Madrid.—Reuter.

Many Rescued

London, July 28.

Eighteen nationalities are represented among 319 men and 466 women and children who have been evacuated from Barcelona and other Catalan ports by ships of the British Navy in the last few days.

The total included 544 British, 142 Swiss, 40 Americans and 21 French.

A message received this morning in London from the British Consul at Madrid stated that trains which left Madrid for Alicante and Valencia on the night of July 26 had arrived safely and supply trains from these ports had come through to the capital. Arrangements were being pushed ahead for the evacuation by this route of those British subjects who desired to leave.

As the Foreign Secretary stated yesterday in the House of Commons, the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs has replied to a communication from the British Government to the effect that the Spanish Government was doing all it could for the protection of British subjects and would spare no efforts in this direction.

The Second Destroyer Flotilla left to-day to relieve the First Destroyer Flotilla, ships of which are at present in Basque Ports.—British Wire-logs.

HOT WEATHER, different food or water, the change from home to holiday resort, these and other factors often start the dreaded diarrhoea. Prompt treatment is imperative. Read what other mothers have found best.

"My baby was so bad with summer complaint that we despaired of saving her. A friend advised Baby's Own Tablets. After the third dose baby fell asleep. By noon next day she took her usual bottle feeding."

Mrs. H. Allard, Whitby.

"Another lady who knew the effectiveness of Baby's Own Tablets gave them to a friend's sick child. She writes: 'Last summer, at a camp where I was staying, a young child contracted summer complaint. I gave her some Baby's Own Tablets and they improved her condition right away. I have used them for my own children during teething and would not be without them.'"

Mrs. Adkins, Toronto.

Baby's Own Tablets form a harmless, efficient corrective for colic, indigestion, teething, simple fever, fretfulness, constipation and colds, as well as diarrhoea.

They are certified safe and contain no opiates or narcotics. Obtainable from medicine dealers everywhere.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1936.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

Mr. Anthony Eden, in his review of British foreign policy,
could not well overlook the
question of the future of
mandated territories, for doubtless this issue will be touched upon when Germany sees fit to reply to the British questionnaire, a response to which is now long overdue. The British Foreign Secretary frankly confesses that
any idea of transferring mandates from their present holders
to other Powers would raise grave
difficulties, but he does throw out
a hint that something might be done in regard to the question of freer access to raw materials
produced in mandated territories
and colonies. The British view is that this latter question might well be discussed at an international conference under League
of Nations auspices. In taking this stand, Britain shows a clear realisation of the basic aspect of the problem. There has been no demand by the populations of
the mandated territories for any change of control, and, what is equally to the point, the mandates
are not exercised solely in the interests of the mandatory
Powers. At the same time,
there may be scope for making
the raw materials produced in these territories more generally accessible, and Britain is quite prepared that this aspect of the question, and also its relevance
to certain of her Colonies, should come under sympathetic consideration. When the issue is closely examined it will be seen that the claims of those who are raising this question could be met if some satisfactory arrangement on these lines were reached.

There is not, and never has been,
any question of excluding from
these mandated territories settlers from any country, and it would thus seem that if the purely economic problem could be adjusted, no necessity for further concessions would arise. It is apparent, however, that even
from this standpoint Britain
could not be expected to be the
only nation to make concessions,
and that is precisely the reason why the idea of an international conference on the subject has been put forward. The first necessity, so far as the general situation is concerned, is that major European problems should
be disposed of before these exterior issues are raised. Thus
Mr. Eden pleads that with so many other international questions outstanding, there should be no disposition to introduce at this stage matters which might cause
further differences between the nations. Once there is a general settlement in Europe, other and less urgent issues can be dealt with in due course. Until then,
it would be most impolitic and

Before you get married—

PROVERBIAL-
ly marriage is a lottery;
and if you marry in
the proverbial manner—
without a thought, but with only an emotion—it certainly
is.

Marriage is also an art, and as such can only be learned in marriage. How then—without marriage—can you judge the potentialities (in that art) of the
one you love?

Psychologists say that the only true preparation for that art is complete emotional maturity; and
that you are to be considered
emotionally mature if:—

1. you are liked by both sexes,
2. you are reasonably happy
in your job (a woman should learn a job even if
she intends to marry, they
say),
3. you are emotionally independent of your relatives—
especially neurotic relatives—and can make important decisions without them,
4. you have a desire to share
the responsibilities as well
as the joys of married companionship and to make the continuous adjustments
that it requires.

You cannot measure emotional maturity in a paper test; but
you can—once your attention is called to it—observe the first three points in everyday contacts,
especially when you are visiting
each other's homes.

This questionnaire—frank and detailed—is drawn up to throw
light on the fourth point; to elicit
your emotional maturity in relation to what you want from marriage, and what you are prepared to give.

A. Answer first those questions
on which you have clear-cut opinions, then the others. Its value to you naturally depends on the honesty you bring to it. If your love justifies marriage, it will not balk at the frank reality
of these significant details.

B. Answer the questionnaire
separately, then compare
your answers. Your readiness to do that is in itself a test and
indication of emotional maturity.

C. It will set you thinking and talking.

NOTES OF THE DAY

A centre of spiritual healing
has been opened at Milton Abbey,
which is situated in one of the most beautiful parts of Dorset-shire. The Abbey was dedicated on June 15 by the Bishop of Sherborne in the presence of more
than a thousand men and women, including seventy clergymen, who
had come from distant parts of the country to join in a thanksgiving festival to celebrate the launching of this new enterprise.
The Ministry is to be conducted by the Rev. John Maillard, who
for the past seventeen years has brought physical and spiritual relief to many sufferers. Milton Abbey comprises an estate of nine hundred acres. Thirty patients are already under treatment, and after a certain amount of renovation and reconstruction it is hoped to be able to accommodate about two hundred. The centre is open to anyone suffering from mental disorders or bodily ailments and disables. Plans are in hand for the development of various occupations, in which vital and constructive work may be undertaken,
and patients will be encouraged to lead normal lives. One section of the Abbey is fitted with modern electrical appliances, and a staff of trained nurses is to be employed, under the supervision of a resident medical officer. A special convalescent home is to be built,
and a cinema will be erected where films can be shown for the entertainment and instruction of patients. No public appeal for funds has been made, but a sum
of £20,000 has already been received from private supporters.

ill-advised to press for the solution of problems which might involve the nations concerned in interminable argument and thus create an atmosphere in no wise
helpful to the consideration of larger and more pressing issues.

Ask your fiancé (or—ée)
these 20
QuestionsYou are "emotionally mature"
if—

you appreciate most in the ideal mate (See Question One);
affection, physical attraction, even temper, love of home and children.

—If you want most from marriage: affection, physical companionship, a helpmate in your career (if you are a man); children and security (if you are a woman). (See Question Two.)

—If you prefer a 50/50 partnership. (See Question Three.)

—If you prefer the co-operative type of partner; the man who is neither dominating and paternal nor submissive
and hen-pecked; the woman who is neither a "clinger" nor an overmotherly "clucking hen." (See Questions Four and Five.)

—If you rate the following points high when choosing a life-partner (see Question Six): affection, physical attraction,
similar interests and tastes, similar views about life, etc.,
desire for children, sufficient means to ensure security.

—If you are on excellent terms with relatives, prefer to have their approval, but are able to make decisions without them and even against their wishes.

—If you would prefer fewer visits from "in-laws" after marriage, but would judge them on their merits.

—If you believe that almost any two people can make a success of marriage if they are determined to.

—If you believe in making clear before marriage: (a)
whether the wife should retain outside interests or not, (b)
how the family income should be controlled and budgeted,
(c) about children.

—If you believe that instinct should be guided by knowledge in the matter of the physical and emotional facts of marriage (See Question Eighteen.)

7. Do you consider that children should be welcomed:
a... soon after marriage?
b... after two or three years of
married life?
c... when—and only if—parents can afford it?
One choice.
8. Do you consider it justifiable
to have no children:
a... if there is hereditary
disease in either family?
b... if poverty makes it
difficult to rear them?
c... if either parent does not wish it?
9. Should children:
a... be compelled to undergo
religious instruction?
b... be urged to?
c... be allowed to if they want
to?
d... have none or be dissuaded
from it?
10. On what terms are you with:
a... your mother?
b... your father?
c... your brothers and sisters?
In each case, are you strongly attached? On excellent terms?
Indifferent? Unfriendly?
11. How do you genuinely feel towards:
a... your mother-in-law-to-be?
b... your father-in-law-to-be?
c... your brothers and sisters-
in-law-to-be?
In each case—Strong like? Like very well? Indifferent or dislike?
12. Do you consider that relatives (including mothers-
in-law) should be seen:
a... often?
b... occasionally?
c... rarely?
d... some often, some rarely?
13. Do you consider that women
after marriage:
a... should retain their job and
complete financial independence if they so wish?
b... should retain a part-time
job if they so wish?
c... should cultivate unpaid
outside interests if they wish?
d... should devote their entire
time to the home and
children?
14. In budgeting for a home which do you consider better?
1... giving the wife a fixed allowance and complete control over it?
2... The husband to scrutinise
bills and petty cash
accounts and hand over the money as they are checked?
15. Would you consider it:
a... wise for a husband to insure himself when he marries, if not already insured?
b... reasonable for the wife to contribute a small amount
from her allowance towards this provision?
16. Do you believe that two people about to marry
should get from their doctors a clean bill so far as health and suitability for parenthood are concerned.
17. Do you believe that engaged couples should live in each other's homes for a time to test
out whether they are emotionally compatible for more than twenty-four hours at a stretch?
18. Do you believe that:
a... the physical facts of marriage are important, and
the requisite knowledge
should be completed from books or doctors or a competent adviser?
b... such things should be left
to one's own instinct?
19. Do you believe that divorce
is:
a... never justified?
b... justified if the marriage
makes neither happy?
c... justified only in the last resort?
20. Do you believe:
a... that almost any two sensible persons can make a success of their marriage
if they are determined to?
b... that unless they are suited
to each other, their chances are poor?
c... that they must be "spiritual affiliates": the only two for each other in the world?

WHERE THE HOUSE-KEEPING MONEY GOES

You Are Paying Three Times As Much As You Did Last Year

NEW H.K. STAMPS READY

ISSUE BEFORE END OF YEAR
DESIGNS for Hongkong postage stamps marking the new reign are now ready to be submitted for official approval.

Colours vary from rose, violet, jade, yellow, brown, blue to pastel shades.

New Hongkong stamps will show His Majesty the King three-quarter length. The head of the King will be crowned with the Imperial Crown. Local stamps will be similar to those minted for India, Ceylon, Straits Settlements and the West Indies.

The West Indies stamps, however, will be in three sections, two of which will display a local beauty spot.

No scenic stamps will be issued for Hongkong, at least, not for the present. It is probable, however, that an entirely new issue, depicting beauty spots in the Colony, will be prepared for the Centenary of Hongkong, which occurs in January, 1941.

New stamps will probably be on sale in Hongkong before the end of the year.

No further King George V. stamps are being printed and reserve stocks of some of our stamps are already getting low.

It is anticipated that a total of 20,000,000 stamps will be minted for Hongkong's initial supply, as stamp sales in this Colony exceed 14,000,000 per annum in normal years.

Demand by philatelists for new issues will increase the requirements for 1937.

A stamp not hitherto sold in Hongkong will be the Edward VIII 15 cent stamp, made necessary by the new postal rates to the United Kingdom. Demand has also increased for high value stamps, due to increasing use of the air mail.

23 Hongkong Ships To Change From Coal to Oil

Twenty-three turbine steamers of the Blue Funnel Line (Alfred Holt and Company), Liverpool, are to be converted from coal to oil.

The contract, involving an expenditure of many thousands of pounds and providing employment for hundreds of men for nearly a year, will be divided among a number of marine engineering firms.

This revolutionary change has been decided upon partly because the present centralized control of coal sales in Britain has increased the cost of bunker coal, and partly because oil-burning will add a knot or two to the speed of the vessels.

At a conservative estimate, the conversion of this fleet will mean a loss of nearly 200,000 tons of bunker coal a year to the coal trade of Britain, and a substantial loss to Hongkong. Majority of the Blue Funnel fleet call at this port.

DEATH OF MR. F. A. TROLLOPE

RETIRED PLANTER FROM MALAYA

His Straits friends will be sorry to learn of the death of Mr. Frank Anthony Trollope, aged 64, at his residence in Talpo Road on Saturday morning.

The late Mr. Trollope was born in Sydney, Australia, but for the last 40 years he had been a rubber planter in the Federated Malay States. He retired recently.

He came to Hongkong about two months ago for a six months visit. On Friday night he went to bed as usual, apparently in the best of health, but according to his servants, he died about 11 a.m. after coughing for a short while.

Suspicious of his sudden demise, the police took the case in hand and held a post mortem. They are now perfectly satisfied that death was due to natural causes, namely high blood pressure. He was buried at Happy Valley yesterday.

The late Mr. Trollope leaves a son in Singapore.

The Rossilano Duo, who will make their bow to the Hongkong public in the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel on Saturday.

Hongkong Wholesale Prices

SENSATIONAL DROP IN SILK PRICES

INDEX Numbers of Wholesale Prices for Hongkong for the second quarter of the current year disclose some startling declines in the prices of competitive lines.

Although average prices have risen since 1935, when they touched their lowest ebb, the prices of all goods are still materially below those obtainable in 1931, and in some respects are even below the figures for 1922.

With the exception of the second quarter of 1935, the price of cement has reached its lowest since 1922. Index Number of the wholesale cost of this commodity dropping in this fashion (1922=100): 1931-71.8; 1934-45.8; 1935-42.3; 1935, First Quarter-38.7; 1935, Second Quarter-36; 1936, First Quarter-43.9; 1936, Second Quarter-42.6.

Statistics, based on declarations furnished by importers and exporters, supplied by the Statistical Branch of the Imports and Exports Department disclose the following fluctuations.

	1922-100	1st Qr. 2nd Qr.	1931	1934	1935	1936
Foodstuffs	144.3	94.3	85.1	109.1	113.3	113.3
Textiles	135.8	85.0	71.2	95.7	99.5	99.5
Metals	140.9	97.4	70.8	101.8	106.5	106.5
Miscellaneous	125.4	89.3	72.3	89.8	89.1	89.1
Average	136.6	91.5	77.0	98.9	102.1	102.1

SENSATIONAL DECLINE

In textiles, the most sensational drop in wholesale prices was registered by artificial Silk Yarns, the Index Number of which have declined from 100 in 1922, 45.1 in 1931 and 30 in 1934 to 19.1 for the second quarter of the current year.

Since 1934 upward trends have been registered in Italian (Dyed Figured, Plain), Hemp (Manilla), Hessian Cloth, Blankets (Wool and Union), and Flannel, while there has been a downward tendency in Cotton (Dyed Plain), Shirtings, Silk Piece Goods, Artificial Silk Yarn and Woollen Suitings and Tweeds.

With the exception of Iron and Steel Nails, (downward) Iron and Steel Plates (upward), Pig Lead (upward), petrol (upward) and tin (downward), wholesale prices of metals and minerals have remained fairly constant since the beginning of 1934.

Appreciable increases have been registered since the beginning of 1934 in the wholesale prices of hard-woods, cow hides, buffalo hides, and softwoods, while declines have been noted in the prices of cement, charcoal, firewood, rattans, and sulphuric acid.

The following statistics show some of the Index Numbers of Wholesale prices, the index 100 being for the year 1922:

Cotton Yarn	141.4	86.2	77.1	101.1	102.2	102.2
Cotton (Dyed)	94.8	66.3	57.2	66.7	62.2	62.2
Shirtings (Dyed)	87.5	61.6	57.3	58.7	56.7	56.7
Hemp (Manilla)	116.0	84.7	67.4	135.1	130.8	130.8
Gunny Bales	201.1	185.0	147.8	286.7	271.1	271.1
Hessian Cloth	61.0	62.4	42.2	47.3	100.0	100.0
Silk Piece	84.3	63.4	30.4	30.0	61.3	61.3
Silk Yarn	45.1	30.0	19.8	20.1	19.1	19.1
Blankets (Wool and Union)	154.8	94.7	78.1	105.8	109.8	109.8

ONLY EGGS, FLOUR CHEAPER

"WHERE does the money go?"

Here is the answer to a question that is perturbing many Hongkong housewives.

Twelve months ago Hongkong salaries seemed ample for most people. To-day many are finding it difficult to make both ends meet.

Statistics issued by the Statistical Office of the Imports and Exports Department tell you why.

They show, for instance, that the wholesale price of commodities for the second half of the current year were the highest since 1931.

The prices of some commodities have increased enormously.

For the purpose of comparison, the Statistical Office takes the year 1922 as an average one, and prices for subsequent years show increases and decreases in comparison with 1922 prices, the index number for that year being 100.

The highest prices during this decade were registered in 1931 when, as compared with the Index Number 100 for 1922, the wholesale price of foodstuffs was 144.3 (44.3 per cent. increase), textiles 135.8 (35.8 per cent. increase), metals and minerals 140.9 (40.9 per cent. increase) and miscellaneous 125.4 (25.4 per cent. increase). The average Index Number for all commodities was 136.6 (representing an increase of 36.6 per cent. over 1922 wholesale prices).

At the beginning of 1935, however, prices of everything had dropped in the intervening three years by almost 50 per cent.

The Index Numbers of Wholesale Prices for the first quarter of 1935 compared with those of 1931 (1922=100) as follows:

Foodstuffs	144.3	85.4
Textiles	135.8	78.9
Metals, Minerals	140.9	83.7
Miscellaneous	125.4	78.2

Now, as a result of the drop in the dollar, prices exceed those of 1922 and are almost back to where they were in the costly year of 1931.

FROM CHEAP TO DEAR
Foodstuffs are 13.3 per cent dearer than they were in 1922, textiles are approximately the same price, metals and minerals are 6.5 per cent. dearer and miscellaneous goods are only 11.9 per cent. cheaper.

Wholesale prices of all foodstuffs are up. Naturally, when wholesale prices rise, retail prices also become dearer.

Last year, practically every type of food was cheaper than in 1922. This year practically all are dearer.

1935	1936	1936
Jan. Feb. Apr. May	March	June
Beans	78.7	106.9	118.8
Beef	128.0	181.5	159.3
Eggs	73.6	97.3	82.7
Flour	95.3	92.4	98.5
Fruit	201.5	198.1	233.5
Milk, tinned	111.4	114.9	107.6
Mutton	116.7	162.1	187.9

WHERE $1 GOES

In effect, these figures show that, while eggs and flour are cheaper than they were in 1922, and are approximately the same price as in last year, the cost of other foodstuffs has risen enormously.

For instance, it costs $2.83 1/2 today for the same quantity of fruit which you purchased for $1 in 1922. It costs $1.60 to buy beef for which you paid only $1 in 1922, and for mutton costing $1 in 1922 you must now pay $1.88.

Some commodities besides eggs and flour are cheaper. For example you can obtain the same quantity of sugar to-day for 73 cents as for $1 in 1922. Last year, however, it would have cost you only 43 cents. Rice is practically the same price as it was in 1922, but is almost 25 per cent. dearer than it was in 1935.

Pork is the cheapest meat to buy in the wholesale market to-day. You can get it for 87 1/2 cents for every dollar you expended in 1922, or for every 95 cents you spent in the first three months of this year.

PERRY SMOTHERS CRAWFORD TO WIN DAVIS CUP

Quist's Gallant Effort Proves To Be Of No Avail

CUP RETAINED WITH STRAIGHT SETS VICTORY FOR FOURTH YEAR IN SUCCESSION

Great Britain beat Australia by three matches to two at Wimbledon yesterday and so retained the Davis Cup for the fourth successive year. In the final and deciding match of the series, Fred Perry overcame Crawford in three straight sets of 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

But what a gallant fight Australia made for it! Two rubbers down on Saturday they looked certain for a 5-love or 4-1 defeat.

But Quist and Crawford responded wholeheartedly on Monday by winning the doubles and yesterday Quist made a stupendous effort in defeating H. W. Austin in his second singles.

And so the result depended entirely on the last match—Perry v. Crawford—and if the Australian had been meeting anybody else it would have been easy to obtain odds on Australia winning.

But with the irrepressible Perry it was quite a different story, and in accordance with expectations, he smothered Crawford in three sets and so kept the Cup in England for another twelve months.

It is not without interest to note that only once before since the competition started in 1900 has the Davis Cup remained in England for four successive years. Great Britain, then entered as the British Isles, won it from 1903 to 1906 inclusive.

United States still holds the record of retaining the trophy for seven years, while France held it for six and Australia for four from 1908 to 1911 inclusive.

PERRY DICTATES

Although Quist's unexpected victory over Austin yesterday had paved the way for a spectacular finish to the series, the concluding match hardly provided the climax expected.

Perry was in such perfect form that he monopolised the court, dictating the terms throughout and winning with comparative ease.

Crawford gave an improved display on that of last Saturday, but he was clearly the servant of a tennis magnate and scrambled for the few games he collected.

A Reuter telegram says that Perry hit his best form. He varied his pace and length judiciously and smashed with unerring accuracy.

Crawford played as well as Perry would let him. The Australian occasionally scored with a sharply angled volley, but Perry's keen anticipation enabled him to return almost everything.

Perry led 3-1, then 3-2 in the first set, but afterwards sailed along comfortably to take the next four games.

In the second set the Englishman maintained his leads, going ahead at 3-2 and again for 5-3, while in the third set he was 6-1 ahead.

There were many splendid long rallies in the last set, when Crawford, playing a hopeless uphill game, went all out to prevent a straight sets

Victory. He scored a break-through to become 3-5, but Perry held his next service for the match and the Davis Cup.

BASELINE CONTEST

Rain delayed the start of the Quist v. Austin match for 90 minutes, and when the players got to grips they engaged in a battle on similar styles, both concentrating on long baseline rallies, says Reuter.

They sent sweeping drives to the corners, waiting for the other man to make errors. Austin drove better than Quist on both hands, but was weak overhead, whereas the Australian smashed brilliantly and served exceedingly well, apart from three double-faults in the second set, which appeared to upset him.

Austin actually led 5-3 in the

And Is Taken

Golfers everywhere are so much impressed by imperturbable Alfred Padgham and all his victories that so far as they are concerned he can rest peacefully on his laurels.

With one exception. Joe Ezar, the American, having viewed Mr. Padgham and read the fulsome praise showered upon his modest head, remains unconvinced.

Ezar has so mastered the intricacies of golf that he has become one of the greatest trick-shot players in the world. He can make a golf ball do almost anything except talk.

This being so, Ezar figures he must have more than an outside chance of surprising the master—and he has challenged Padgham to a match for £40.

What Padgham thinks about it is best expressed by the fact that he has covered the American's £40 and agreed to play him on the Selkirk Park course.

Surrey Invite Hobbs And Hitch To Return For County Cricket Match

London.

Surrey, who were weakened by the calls of the Gentlemen vs. Players match at Lord's upon the services of E. R. T. Holmes, F. R. Brown, Fishlock, and Gover, a week or so ago, made a rather startling move in their efforts to get together a team to meet Warwickshire in the game at the Oval on the same day.

They invited Jack Hobbs, who has not taken part in county cricket since 1934, and "Bill" Hitch, the former fast bowler, who is now coach to the Glamorgan club, to turn out for them.

Hobbs declined the invitation, preferring not to reappear in first-class cricket, and Hitch is not likely to accept.

M. J. Turnbull, the Glamorgan secretary-captain, received a letter asking if the Welsh county would release Hitch.

HITCH'S "NO"

Hitch himself stated that he had not played in first-class cricket since 1925.

"I am in my fiftieth year," he said, "and I do not feel that I could do myself justice in a three-day match." Asked for an explanation of this unusual step, Mr. A. F. Davey, secretary of Surrey, said: "Mr. Holmes apparently thought, from what he had heard, that 'Bill' Hitch could bowl pretty fast for a short time. We have not received a reply from him."

Questioned by a News of the World representative, Mr. Davey said that the Surrey committee thought it a good idea to re-introduce some of the old favourites, "Hobbs and Hitch," he said, "are among the most popular players the county has ever had, and it would have delighted thousands of their admirers once more to see them in action."

Fred Perry and Jack Crawford, who yesterday met in the deciding match of the Davis Cup Challenge Round, snapped after one of their many historic matches. The Englishman emphasised his superiority by once again winning in three sets.

How Miss Jacobs Reached Final

Mrs. Sperling Unimpressive

(By H. S. Scrivener)

London, July 3.

It was almost inevitable that the semi-finals of the women's singles at Wimbledon yesterday should suffer by comparison, both from a speculative and a spectacular point of view, with the two in the men's event, which gave rise to such wonderful and exciting tennis on Wednesday.

In the first place close students of the book were expecting to see Mrs. H. Sperling beat Mrs. R. Mathieu and Miss H. H. Jacobs overcome Miss J. Jedrejowska. And this is what actually happened. In the second round anything conducive to thrills, or excitement of any kind occurred in either match. Both, put it quite frankly, were one-sided, and in neither had the winner ever any real cause for anxiety.

But I think it may fairly be said that Miss Jacobs proved herself the cleverest and most resourceful player of the four, and that Mrs. Sperling gave further evidence of the fact that she is not the mere slow-witted that she is thought to be by so many people. She gave us a good illustration yesterday of the way in which she can speed up her game when it is fairly safe to do so.

TWICE DEFEATED

She beat Mrs. Mathieu recently in Paris on "the hard stuff," to which Mrs. Mathieu is better accustomed, in the French championships, by 6-3, 6-4. Yesterday she beat her by 6-3, 6-2, in a match which lasted only a minute or two more than an hour, although it contained a good many long and rather wearisome rallies.

In the first set the Frenchwoman, without actually getting the better of the deal, was keeping her end up well and won the fourth game for 2-2 from 6-40, but two games later she could not clinch a "vantage point" and Mrs. Sperling made it 4-2. However, Mrs. Mathieu redoubled in the next game, and then had an inopportune fall which compelled her to let Mrs. Sperling reach 40-30 and take that game as well as the next to 10 for the set.

The second set was a quicker affair. Mrs. Sperling got an early winning lead, and was soon driving harder and volleying occasionally in a manner that carried her to 4-0 and out at 6-2. In the last game Mrs. Mathieu saved two match points but had to yield at "vantage point" against her in the third.

POLISH GIRL DISAPPOINTS

In the other match Miss Jedrejowska played disappointingly, but I am inclined to attribute this to the clever manner in which Miss Jacobs tackled her, varying her tactics in accordance with the needs of the situation. At the outset the Polish girl was playing her brilliant, hard-hitting game, which has carried her so far up to now, with success.

Miss Jacobs was hitting hard, too, and I think she was right. At any rate, after leading by 3-2 and being led by 4-3 she won the Jedrejowska service for 4-4, and was still pretty happy. However, the Polish girl at this stage of the proceedings had elected to reduce her pace (that embarrassing brink of success again, don't you think?). Miss Jacobs wisely followed suit, and reverting to her famous twiddle ones, chipped her way to 6-4.

THE LAST CHANCE

Miss Jedrejowska's last chance of holding on more or less vanished when she lost the first two games of the second set after being within a point of 1-1. She won two games on her own service, and then, serving again, with the score at 5-2, she saved a match point before succumbing.

Miss Jacobs has achieved many "engineering" triumphs, and this was one of the best of them. She has already figured unsuccessfully in four Wimbledon finals, and they are, perhaps, worth setting out as follows: v. Miss Helen Wills (as she was then) in 1929; v. Mrs. Moody in 1932; v. Miss D. E. Round in 1934; and v. Mrs. Moody in 1935. Mrs. Sperling reached the final when she was Frl. Krahwinkel, in 1931, against Frl. Auswiler, and was the semi-final last year when she lost to Miss Jacobs.

INTERPORT BOWLS

12 Names Submitted

At a meeting of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association in the S. C. M. Post Boardroom yesterday the personnel of the Interport Committee was decided and the names of players available for the trip to Shanghai were given.

Mr. C. J. Titch was in the chair and others present were—Messrs. C. B. Hosking (Secretary), A. O. Madar (I.R.C.), F. J. Lunny (H.K. Electric), P. E. Knight (C.S.C.C.), J. S. Riddell (Public), H. Overy (K.C.C.), F. M. Silva (Hercules), G. Sherriff (K. B. G. C.), J. V. Ramsay (Kowloon Dock), E. el Arguill (C.C.C.) and J. Russell (H.K.F.C.).

On a motion of the Chairman it was decided that the selected team should sail for Shanghai by the Empress of Asia on September 4, as previous correspondence had indicated that the end of September was too late for the matches.

It was announced that the following players were available if selected—F. V. V. Ribeiro and F. X. M. da Silva (Recrolo), A. Hyde Lay (K.C.C.), H. H. Rose (K.B.G.C.), C. S. Rossetti, J. S. Landolt, D. Rum-John and W. Ward (C.C.C.), P. E. Knight and J. F. McGowan (C.S.C.C.) and L. Glendinning and W. Dail (Police).

The Interport Committee elected Messrs. C. B. Hosking (Secretary), J. Russell, J. V. Ramsay, G. B. Sherriff, E. el Arguill and S. Denoon.

The Secretary reported that A. Hyde Lay had asked for a ruling on

ARSENAL'S £36,000 PROFIT

GREATEST EVER MADE BY BRITISH CLUB

London, July 12. Arsenal Football Club last year made a working profit of £36,000. This is the greatest profit ever made by any British club, says the Sunday Dispatch.

The balance-sheet, issued yesterday, shows that this is an increase of roughly £1,000 on the previous year. Gate receipts—the largest source of revenue to the club—total over £21,000 but this takes no account of the percentages received from away matches.

A plea put forward last year by the Sunday Dispatch for a simpler and more open balance-sheet has had no effect.

£10,000 IMPROVEMENTS

Items on the expenditure side are still too cumbersome to arrive at an accurate net profit, though the balance on revenue account is a mere £250. This is after paying £10,000 for ground improvements and £5,600 for income tax.

Actually the revenue balance should be £10,850, which shows that the club is in a very healthy state financially, since the total capital is only £5,789.

Reserves total £81,000, or more than fourteen times the subscribed capital!

NEW BUILDINGS

Erection of new stands and provision of better accommodation has cost the club £23,320, according to the balance-sheet, but actual expenditure is probably twice this figure.

Arsenal's freehold grounds and stands are valued at £137,540 in the balance-sheet, but this is after £10,000 has been taken from profits to write down the value of the buildings.

This constitutes yet another hidden reserve.

Despite the large undistributed resources of the club, the dividend on the shares is limited to 7½ per cent., which is the maximum allowed by the rules of the F.A.

Through the middle and omnibus items one gets the impression of a strong financial position and large hidden reserves.

ARSENAL ENCLOSURE

Arsenal's scheme to form a club enclosure is making headway, though old-time supporters of the game may look askance at the venture. There will be 100 members at ten guineas each—the dearest season ticket is five guineas—and these elected aristocrats will have the exclusive right to the directors' box in the West Stand, passenger lift, refreshment rooms, and American bar. They ought to view the football through the eyes of the rules. Guests can be introduced at half a guinea each.

The enclosure is being reconditioned with upholstered rubber-cushioned seats, and glass screens will protect the inmates from the gaze of the vulgar proletarians.

A bye-law as to whether he could obtain a substitute for N. J. Bebbington, a member of his entry in the Open Rink competition, who was in hospital with appendicitis. After reference to the rules the Committee agreed that a substitute, who would play until the end of the competition, was allowable.

The postponement of the semi-final match between F. X. M. da Silva and J. E. Noronha and J. E. Hanson and S. A. Bright was sanctioned by the Committee. The new date fixed was August 5.

"JEWS MAY FLY GERMAN FLAG"

An Olympic Games Manoeuvre

Berlin, July 2. Dr. Goebbels, the Minister for Propaganda, has issued an appeal to the nation to erect at the thousands of foreigners expected for the Olympic Games with an "especially brilliant example of German hospitality."

"I am sure," he states, "that every German will make it a point of honour to be obliging to every foreigner, and of whom are under the protection of the German Reich, and which they require help to render it with advice and deeds."

Jewish shopkeepers have received an official notice informing them that they may fly the German flag during the period of the Games. Among the laws passed at Nuremberg last September was one forbidding Jews to fly the German flag. Its temporary suspension is but one of the measures being taken to persuade the credulous foreign visitor that the Jews are not treated as harshly as reported.

Death Of A Great Tennis Personality

"THE LACOSTE OF CHINA"

(By "Veritas")

News of the death of Khoo Hooi-hye comes as a great shock to the whole tennis fraternity of Hongkong.

Khoo, who was one of the finest players ever produced by China, was a well-known figure on Hongkong courts, often playing here during his various trips between Malaya and Shanghai. In this connection he will probably be chiefly remembered for his magnificent display against Francisco Aragon, the then Philippine champion, on the Hongkong Cricket Club courts in 1930.

Khoo, who could rightly be described as the Lacoste of Chinese tennis, was without doubt a very talented baseline player. From here he sent over withering drives on both hands, and more than once he drove Hongkong champions off the court by means of these powerful strokes.

For years undisputed champion of Malaya, he subsequently conquered other fields when he visited Shanghai and carried off the singles title on more than one occasion. His duels with Gordon Lum used to be the high-spots of the Shanghai tennis season.

PLAYED INTERPORT

Although it is incorrect to say that Khoo played for China in the Davis Cup (his representatives have been

LEAGUE TENNIS PLAYERS SAY NO—THEN YES

CURIOUS DECISION AT THE K.C.C.

With the players assembled and knocking-up preparatory to starting the match, a heavy shower of rain fell at the K.C.C. yesterday afternoon sending the C.R.C. and K.C.C. "A" Division league teams scampering back to the pavilion where it was generally agreed that play would be impossible.

However the two captains inspected the courts as soon as the rain had ceased and pronounced them to be unfit.

Within ten minutes of this verdict, eight of the twelve players were out on the courts indulging in practice.

So, for the third time this season, the match was postponed, though, in view of the players' apparent willingness to continue on courts not greatly affected by the rain, it was difficult to understand why exactly the encounter was put off.

I asked one captain and he said the players didn't want to play. I asked the players and they said the captains had decided. It was all very confusing.

Perhaps the best way to settle this match is for the players to get into a neutral clubhouse and "shake" for it!

ELEMENTS BRAVED

The elements were braved, however, at two other clubs. Down at Causeway Bay, which is notorious for the manner in which the courts remain wet, Chinese Recreation Club second string entertained U.S.R.C., and were beaten 6-3, while at the Hongkong Cricket Club, South China somewhat unexpectedly finished at the losing end of the score, the Cricket Club snatching the odd set.

The deciding set was that between Bathurst and Leys and Wong and Leung, the respective third pairs. The Cricket Club combination won with ease, and with the other two pairs each obtaining a couple of sets, two useful points were earned.

He also played for Shanghai against Hongkong in the 1931 Interport up North, when Shanghai won all five matches. It was in this series that E. C. Fincher dramatically sustained an attack of cramp whilst playing Khoo, the pain being so severe that the Hongkong player had to concede the match.

Possessing a modest and unpretentious personality both on and off the court, Khoo became a popular figure wherever he went. He took victory and defeat alike and was a model of courteous behaviour.

His death leaves a vital gap in the ranks of tennis players whose qualities as sportsmen outlive their reputation as brilliant performers.

INDIA'S STEADY
BATTINGTHWARTS ENGLISH
ATTACK

Battling very steadily in a distressing light, All-India yesterday saved the second Test at Old Trafford, earning a creditable draw with England. When India's second innings score had reached 390 for 5, and they had saved the innings defeat, bad light caused a stoppage. Conditions failed to improve and an hour later it was decided to abandon the match.

India, with an overnight score of 190 for no wicket and still requiring 178 to avoid the innings defeat, quickly lost Mustaq Ali. But Morghant continued to bat steadily and with Ramaswami as an able partner advanced the total to 279. The fourth wicket fell at 313. India still being well in arrears, but with Amar Singh and Naidu together a different complexion was put on the state of the game. The fifth wicket added 73 and England's hopes of victory had dimmed.

However the light came to make the position certain for India. When the match was abandoned India was leading by 22 with five wickets in hand.

Scores as sent by Reuter follow.

GOODWOOD SPOILT
BY RAINFavourite Fails In Big Race

London, July 28.
Heavy showers prevented the usual picturesque scenes at the opening of Goodwood to-day, but the going was good.

The chief race—the Stewards Sup—resulted in a win for Mrs. MacKenzie's filly Solerina, which started at 10 to 1. She won from Mr. Monkhouse's Angle Bread (20 to 1) by three lengths. Third, a short head away came Mr. Harnsworth's Brannan at 33 to 1.

The favourite, Ayrmerin, starting at 8 to 1 was not among the first nine.—Reuter.

CHICAGOLEADERS BUNGL VALUABLE GAMEGIANTS WIN
TWICE

New York, July 28.
Chicago Cubs, leading the National League, dropped a valuable game to Philadelphia to-day, though the St. Louis Cardinals, in second position, were not in action and so did not improve their position greatly.

Camilli, the heavy-hitting Philadelphia, won the game. He got two home runs, which meant the margin of victory, for the Phillies won five to three. Cubs hit six and Phillies twelve, and the winners had two errors.

New York Giants crushed the Cincinnati Reds in a double-header. Giants won the first five to three when each team got seven hits, the Reds' score including two homers by Lombardi and Goodman. Cincinnati had one error.

Out of two home runs for the Giants in the second engagement, helping to swell sixteen hits to eleven runs. The Reds hit six and scored three. New York had two errors.

Pittsburgh beat Brooklyn nine to eight, although the Pirates had fewer hits. Brooklyn hit fifteen, including a home run by Jordan, but the Pittsburgh batters lunched their thirteen blows to raise a winning

U.S.R.C. and lost by six sets to three while the Hongkong Cricket Club, playing at home, beat South China by five sets to four.

The scores in the match between the Chinese R.C. "B" and the U.S.R.C., played at Causeway Bay, were as follows:

F. H. Kwok and B. C. Leung (Chinese R.C. "B") lost to L. Goldman and A. L. Sullivan 5-7; lost to Major Witherington and Capt. Milne 2-6; beat Wing Commander Bishop and C. Ravenhill 7-5.

Dr. Au and W. C. Choy (Chinese R.C. "B") lost to Goldman and Sullivan 4-6; lost to Witherington and Milne 4-6; beat Bishop and Ravenhill 6-2.

S. W. Liang and H. W. Lee (Chinese R.C. "B") lost to Goldman and Sullivan 4-6; lost to Witherington and Milne 4-6; beat Bishop and Ravenhill 6-2.

HONGKONG C.C. v. SOUTH CHINA

Playing on the home courts, the Hongkong Cricket Club defeated the South China A.A. by five sets to four. Scores:

G. W. Sewell and H. Owen-Hughes (Hongkong Cricket Club) lost to H. K. Ho and K. F. Lui 4-6; beat S. Chan and F. N. Wong 6-3; beat K. H. Wong and T. K. Leung 6-2.

T. A. Pearce and D. M. Macdougall (Hongkong Cricket Club) beat Ho and Lui 6-3; lost to Chan and Wong 3-6; beat Wong and Leung 6-4.

G. Bathurst and I. Leys (Hongkong Cricket Club) lost to Ho and Lui 1-6; lost to Chan and Wong 2-6; beat Wong and Leung 6-2.

Owing to a sharp shower yesterday the match between the Kowloon Cricket Club and the Chinese Recreation Club "A" on the former's courts, was postponed. The match between the Indian R.C. and the Club de Recreo was also postponed.

"C" DIVISION MATCH

In a "C" Division match on the Indian R.C. ground the Club de Recreo won by eight matches to one. Scores:

A. Rahmin and M. Hassan (Indian R.C.) lost to A. M. Silva and H. F. Goncalves 0-6; lost to L. A. Silva and J. L. Xavier 4-6; beat H. A. Noronha and G. A. Noronha 6-3.

total. Dodgers had two of the three errors.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York Yankees continued to win. They ran through Detroit's Tigers to the tune of sixteen to six, Gehrig and Selkirk whacking homers and the rest of the side bringing the hitting total to twenty. Goslin homered for the Tigers, whose eleven hits netted six runs. Yankees had three of five errors.

Chicago White Sox also hit twenty times and drove nineteen runs across the plate when they played Philadelphia. The Athletics hit ten to score six. Philadelphia had three of the four errors.

Cleveland beat Washington six to three, hitting fifteen to eleven, when Averil homered twice. Halp also scored a circuit wallop. The winners had an error.

Boston, with ten hits, including Werber's home run, beat St. Louis Browns, with six hits, five to two. Hopper homered for the Browns. There were no errors.—Reuter.

240 YEARS' OLD INN TO GO

London, July 27.
After providing ale for its customers for 240 years the Hare and Hounds Tavern, in Newmarket Road, Cambridge, is to go. Renewal of its licence was refused on the grounds of redundancy.

Under a bequest made in 1696 20/- is paid out of the revenue of the tavern every year to the poor of the parish of St. Botolph's, Cambridge.

"BLUEBEARD" ON NEW CHARGE

Los Angeles, July 26.
THE "Bluebeard" murder, tried here for the murder of his fifth wife by drowning her after the venom of two rattlesnakes failed to produce fatal results, faced to-day evidence which suggested that he also murdered his third wife.

Witnesses testified that the third wife, Winona Wallace James, was found drowned in a bath-tub at a tourist camp at Manitou, Colorado, in October 1932. James suggested that she had fallen under the water owing to a "dizzy spell."

The prosecution is attempting to prove that some weeks before, James hit this woman with a hammer and while she was unconscious pushed her over a precipice. She survived this attempt on her life, only to die by drowning.

"World Revolution"

RUSSIA'S HUGE INCREASE IN POPULATION

Moscow, July 21.
It is estimated here that Russia's population within the next thirty-five years will have increased from 170,000,000 to the stupendous number of 500,000,000.

Last year, when the country's natural increase of population broke all records, reaching the figure of 4,500,000, the Kremlin refused to be worried. We must realize that this huge increase is the result of deliberate policy.

Up to now the Bolsheviks have mainly concentrated on industrialising a backward agrarian country in possession of tremendous natural resources. Now that they feel that this is on its way to fulfillment, they are looking ahead and are determined to tackle even greater tasks.

A "FINAL STRUGGLE"

The thought of "World Revolution," though relegated by them to the background in the course of the internal struggle to socialise and collectivise Russia, has by no means been forgotten. "The final decisive struggle" between the Communists, who now control one-sixth of the globe on the one hand, and large sections of the united capitalist world on the other, is not to the Bolsheviks a mere fantastic dream, but a grim reality which calls for adequate preparation. Hence the firm determination to increase the population.

The absence of man-power, they are determined, is not to be a deterrent in their forthcoming struggle for power. Within the next few years they hope to reach a natural increase of 7,000,000 a year.

Billions of roubles are now being set aside by the Government for the establishment of thousands of nurseries and kindergartens. Thousands of additional beds in maternity homes are being provided. The programme is sanctified by quotations from Lenin, who frankly urged workers to raise large families so that they may have the man-power necessary to wage the fight against capitalism. "Workers must raise children," he wrote, "who will fight for the re-making of the world. We fight better than our fathers, and our children will fight even better than we. And they will conquer."

NEW MORAL CRUSADE

As an immediate step in the direction of increasing the population, the Kremlin has undertaken an earnest campaign to stabilise family life and generally set Soviet morals in order. Motherhood is glorified, and divorced husbands who fail to provide alimony payments for the support of their children are being punished by a period of imprisonment.

Those men who are inconsiderate of the welfare of their offspring and brutally abandon them, putting the burden of their upkeep on the mothers, are discarding the dignity of the Soviet citizen. Such is the tenor of a barrage of editorials that have been appearing in the press within recent weeks.

Abortions, legalised by decree in 1920 and widely practised, must be prohibited, it is urged. In fact, a draft of a new law dealing with this problem is now the topic of general discussion.

Local authorities are convinced that as a result of the Government campaign, the birthrate in the country is certain to increase and far exceed the natural increase of 4,500,000 of last year.

The Bolsheviks are, in fact, determined to become a world force of great magnitude, and are now setting out to plan their population increase even as they have been planning the construction of factories and the agricultural output.

MADCHEN REVOLTS WHEN TEACHER FORGETS 'HEIL'

Berlin, July 16.
Scene in a classroom of a Berlin girls' school—
The English hour is finished. The schoolmistress, closes her books, starts to walk away. The girls do not move.

Whispered comments grow to open remarks. The leader of the class leaves her desk, goes to the mistress, and says: "You have forgotten the German salute."

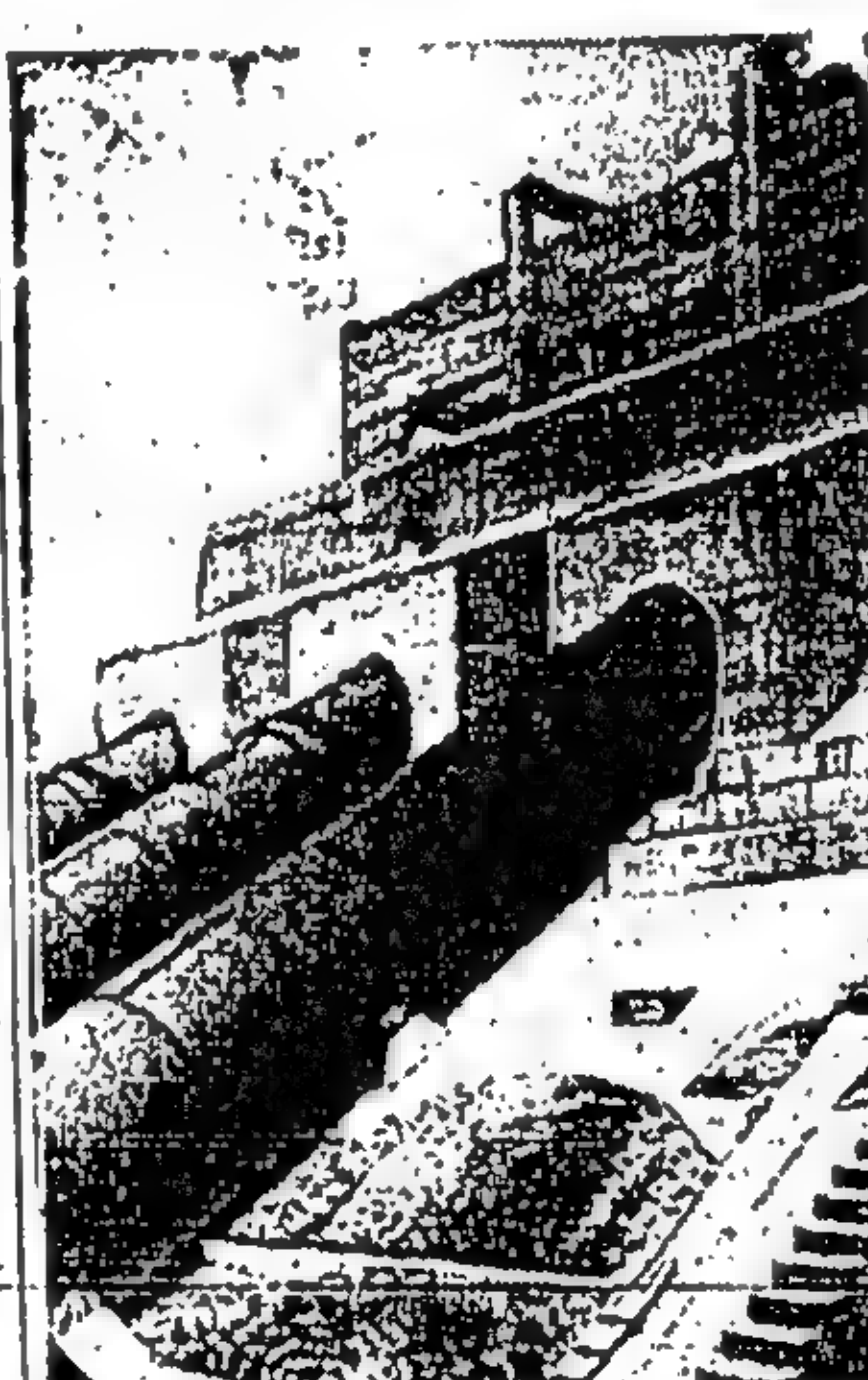

The mistress is embarrassed. "The girls have started to leave their places and nobody would hear," she replies.

"Not listen to the German salute?" asks the girl scornfully, walking to the teacher's platform. "Stand to attention, she calls. 'Every girl stand up with her arm raised. Heil Hitler!'"

"Heil Hitler!" roar the girls in chorus.

Sequel: The girl is highly praised by the authorities for her behaviour; the teacher is admonished for her forgetfulness.

OIL ARTERIES

A view of the 1,100 kilometres long oil pipe-line, so important to England, which carries oil from Iraq to Haifa, near the Mediterranean. Recently an attempt was made by Arabs to blow up the line, British troops arriving just in time. The line of pipes is now constantly watched by flyers.

Three Drowned In Human Chain Tragedy

London, July 21.
THREE men were drowned when a human chain, formed to rescue a girl, was broken by heavy waves at Whitsand Bay, near Plymouth on Sunday evening.

Twice the chain was reformed, but finally the girl, Miss Eileen West, aged 20 of Upper Tooting, swam ashore. Miss West got into difficulties through the strong current and her plight was seen and a human chain formed of four civilians and three soldiers. Just as they reached the girl a heavy wave broke the chain and three of the men and a youth were swept out to sea. The youth was saved—Roy Hornham of Stoke, Devonport, but the three men Isaac Edwards aged 21 of Devonport; Mr. F. Williams of Torpoint, married with two children, and Private Edward Lowe of the King's Regiment stationed at Devonport, were drowned.

SHIP REPAYS A DEBT

When the P. and O. liner Ranpura ran aground, loaded with a rich cargo of Chinese art treasures, at Gibraltar last April another P. and O. boat, Barrabool, helped to get her off. This month the Barrabool was held up at Colombo with engine trouble—and the Ranpura returned from eighteen hours out to relieve her of mails.

Egypt's Greenshirts Are In Alien Pay

Cairo, July 20.
Nahas Pasha, Nationalist Premier of Egypt, announced in the Chamber to-day that the Greenshirts—the extreme Nationalist Youth organisation—were paid by a foreign Power.

The Premier said he had proof, which he could not disclose. He did not specify the Power.

Greenshirts are forbidden to conduct propaganda.

*Youth organisation of Wafd, Nahas Pasha's party, are Blueshirts. Greenshirts, demanding more active method, have slogan, "Egypt for the Egyptians."

The Increase of The Hatless

London, July 27.
To go about without a hat is becoming increasingly popular.

Among women the habit is more confined to younger people but with men, the bald heads of age and the well covered ones of youth vie with one another in being hatless.

There is apparently a general belief that it is more healthy, and this is true, according to a doctor, to the extent that it is healthy to discard any superfluous clothing, but it could be dangerous if adopted without being used to it.

Released Murderer Falls To Death Over Cliff

Mr. William C. Tuke, formerly a City chartered accountant, convicted murderer, released from Broadmoor about six months ago, fell over the cliffs at Saldade, Brighton, last month, and was killed.

Six years ago Tuke killed his wife and fifteen-year-old son at their home in Penshurst-gardens, Edgware. He was sent to Broadmoor after recovering from a throat wound he received at the time of the murders.

At his trial at the Old Bailey, where he was found guilty but insane, it was stated that he had been worried over his son's lack of mental development.

Italy's Stratosphere 'Submarines'

Paris, July 22.
THE importance of aviation in modern warfare and the part it will play in the development of Abyssinia is described by General Valle, the Italian Under-Secretary for Air, in a talk published in Le Journal to-day.

General Valle, who has just concluded a civil air agreement with Germany, said:

"You have seen the utility of an army, however courageous, if it has no air force. Even in the mountainous regions of Abyssinia, where the machines had to fly at such an altitude that they lost 30 per cent. of their power, they gave conclusive results."

In Abyssinia we shall have eight aeroplanes principally where it will be possible to fly during the rainy season.

"Abyssinia will be held by aviation. Aviation, you must not forget, is the arm of poor nations. Think how many aeroplanes one can build with the money needed for only one battleship."

"Abyssinia will be supplied with 300 aeroplanes, of which 200 have already arrived."

"At this moment we are building 100 fast transport machines which will be capable of transporting 2,500 men in any average day, and of carrying 1½ tons of material each. They will travel at 250 miles an hour."

"The future of aviation is in the stratosphere. Italy's Stratosphere Squadron, under Lieut.-Colonel Pezzi at Guidonia, has already reached a height of 48,000ft."

General Valle added that work was going forward on what may be termed "submarines of the stratosphere"—machines with airtight compartments.

GODDESS PUT IN LINER TRAVELS WITH MAHARAJAH

Bombay, July 21.
AFTER 34 years' rule, the Maharajah of Mysore left India for the first time last night.

He is travelling in the P. and O. liner Ranpura, bound for Europe, and his tour includes a visit to England.

The family goddess Chamundeswari has been installed on board the liner, and Brahmin cooks will provide a vegetarian diet for their ruler in a special kitchen.

OXFORD PROTESTS AGAINST NEW DON

Oxford, July 21.

INTENSE indignation has been aroused in academic circles here by the appointment of Professor E. R. Dodds as Regius Professor of Greek.

A number of informal protests has already been made to the Home Secretary, Sir John Simon, who is an Oxford graduate, and a group of classical dons is considering making a formal protest to the Prime Minister, who was responsible for the appointment.

The choice of Professor Dodds, who is 43, is challenged first of all because he was a conscientious objector during the war and holds advanced Socialist views.

"MODIFIED MY VIEWS"

Professor Dodds, who occupies the chair of Professor of Greek in the local university said:

"I declined to take part in military work for two reasons—because I was an internationalist sympathiser and because, as an Irishman, I had no interest in the Empire as such during the war."

"I was never summoned for military service and I spent some time doing ambulance work in Serbia. Since the war I have modified my views, and I am to-day perfectly friendly towards Great Britain."

Asked whether he would now be prepared to fight in defence of the Empire, Professor Dodds, replied: "You cannot expect me to answer that question without thought. I have not yet made up my mind."

"Surely," he was asked, "anyone who is to occupy the most important chair of Greek learning in the world must have some convictions on so fundamental a topic?"

Professor Dodds reiterated that he had not made up his mind.

NO CLASSICAL BOOKS

It is also urged against Professor Dodds that he has spent all his teaching life in provincial universities, and that he has never published any book on the life or literature of the classical age of Greece.

Asked about this Professor Dodds admitted that he had never published any book dealing with these subjects. He has, however, contributed articles to magazines on Greek classical literature.

Herrings And The Safety Razors

London, July 28.

A new way of smuggling safety razor blades and scores of articles of drapery goods made in Japan was unsuccessfully tried out in Dublin this week.

Six large boxes labelled "herrings" arrived at a railway station at Dundalk, Irish Free State, from Belfast.

They were addressed to a person in Dublin. The Customs Officers were suspicious and in each case there was a layer of herrings, and underneath parcels of safety razor blades and scores of articles of drapery goods.

The value of the goods seized amounted to more than £100.

resident in Oxford whose claims to the professorship are considered by their colleagues to be far more compelling than those of Mr. Dodds.

These men have taught in Oxford for many years, have published authoritative works on the Greek classical period, and fought in the war.

The Prime Minister, in making the appointment, is thought to have acted on the advice of Professor Gilbert Murray, the retiring Regius Professor, who is well known for his enthusiasm for the League of Nations and all its works.

VOYAGE OF MANY ADVENTURES

Plymouth, July 21.

A fight on board with a mad-dened leopardess, a dying man taken aboard from another ship in mid-ocean, a dash to the aid of a stranded cargo boat.

These were adventures which befell the Elder Dempster liner Abosso, which arrived here to-day from West Africa.

The leopardess is one of two pets, Addis and Abba, owned by Mrs. G. S. Browne, whose husband has just relinquished the post of Commissioner of Northern Nigeria.

COAXED INTO CAGE

"I was exercising Addis in the ship's hold when she tried to attack some seamen," Mrs. Browne said. "I could not hold her and she turned on me."

"Three of us struggled with her, but at last I managed to coax her back to her cage. It was the first time I have known fear in my life."

When near Sierra Leone the ship picked up an S.O.S. from the British cargo steamer Clangrant, took an injured man, Abdall Hawk, aboard, and buried him at sea after every medical aid had failed to save his life.

The other S.O.S. was from a Swedish ship's stranded crew. The Abosso went back for them, but found the weather too bad to be able to give help.

San Francisco, July 21.

The creation of a trans-Pacific airplane service has automatically given rise to the problem of how to prevent the introduction into the United States, Hawaii, and other countries being aerially served of insects and parasites that might be detrimental to the crops of those countries.

These insects and parasites conceal themselves as stowaways on the airplanes in the same manner as they do on ships, and thus are carried unknowingly to other countries.

To meet the situation thus created four scientists have already been sent to the island of Guam, which is the largest of the trans-Pacific air bases, where a fight is being made to eradicate all detrimental plant parasites. Later these scientists will visit other air bases in the Pacific.

To date, these operating on Guam have reported that they have already found several types of insects and parasites never reported outside of the island.

In their efforts to eradicate the latter they not only work to meet the plant quarantine regulations of each port where the airplanes may stop, by preventing them from becoming stowaways on the airships, but also work in collaboration with the local farmers to eradicate the pests completely.

One of the scientists, E. H. Bryan, Jr., curator of the Bishop Museum at Honolulu, has already returned to his home post. Three others remain. These are Otto H. Swezey, entomologist of the Experiment Station of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters Association; Mrs. Swezey and Roger L. Usinger, all of Honolulu.

CANE-FARMERS ANXIOUS

The sugar planters are especially anxious to prevent the introduction into Hawaii of any insects or parasites that might prove detrimental to their crops.

Bryan, who participated in the work of the entomologists, was originally sent to reorganize the museum of the Naval governor.

He has just returned to Honolulu, after six weeks on the little Pacific island, and his report, which has just been received here, paints a glowing picture of Guam.

The latter he declares is a veritable paradise for naturalists. The island, according to Bryan, is larger than it looks on the map being 30 miles long, and from four to nine miles in width, with a total area of 225 square miles. Hills rise to an elevation of 1,300 feet.

"The island is partly of volcanic origin," Bryan reported, "and partly of raised coral formation. Some of the volcanic rock is overlaid with coral limestone, indicating that this island must have at some time been submerged. Much of it is heavily forested and feathery with giant palms."

BIRD LIFE DIES

"I listed 500 kinds of flowering plants and 40 kinds of birds," Bryan's report continued, "including a beautiful green and gold pigeon with purple topknot, white terns and fantail flycatchers; also a bright red and black honey eater that resembles some of the forest birds of old Hawaii."

"Bird life, however, is being cut down by huge monitor lizards which

PROHIBITION REPEAL HAS COST AMERICA 10,000 LIVES

Tulsa, Okla., July 21.

Three long years of repeal have cost America 10,000 lives, injuries to 350,000 persons and a money loss of U.S.$500,000,000, according to Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, National president of the W.C.T.U.

Drunkenness has been the scourge that took so great a toll, she said in an address before the 62nd Annual General convention of the organization.

Mrs. Smith reviews conditions in this country as follows:

"Hundreds of drink-cure institutions throughout the country, closed during prohibition, are being re-opened to care for the steadily growing number of legalised alcohol victims."

"Last year the people of the United States contributed more than $2,600,000,000 to the liquor makers and dispensers for their alcoholic wares. In 1936 the bill will run close to three billion dollars."

"Motor traffic deaths have increased more than 25 per cent. in the past two years."

"We are told that last year there were manufactured only enough children's overcoats, macinaws, reefers and light coats to provide approximately one such winter garment for every 30 children, only enough coats and suits to meet the needs of one woman in three."

OPPOSE "TOLERANCE"

Mrs. Smith called upon all members of the W.C.T.U. to oppose politicians who advocate "tolerance."

"A new danger which comes with the re-legalization of liquor in this mechanized age," she said, "is the moderate use of liquors."

"A second menace is the forming of an attitude of tolerance toward drink. Even though people themselves may not drink, they have no basic objection to the use of liquor because they lack comprehensive knowledge."

"POISONOUS DRUG"

"Our educational programme must be based on total abstinence from a drug known to be poisonous and habit forming."

Discussing a peace programme, she said: "The United States signs pacts and treaties, but the 1936 appropriations for army and navy reach the billion dollar mark. We are opposed to such expenditures. We learned the sorry lesson that war cannot end war. Yet we are so in the grip of militarism that, protest as we may, the people apparently cannot be heard."—United Press.

BITTER STRUGGLE ON ROAD TO MADRID

Mataga and encountering fierce resistance. An unconfirmed message states that 500 are dead and 1,000 wounded in the fighting around Estepona.

It is reported that rebel regular troops in the Zubal district executed fifty fugitives in Monday's San Roque battles.—United Press.

London, July 28.

The curtain of silence in Spain was lifted partially to-day by reports from Hendaye indicating Government successes.

It appears that four hundred insurgents in Loyola barracks at San Sebastian, who had been surrounded for a week by Government forces, surrendered after a bombardment by machine-guns.

The prisoners said that their leader, Captain Ferrer, went mad during the siege and was shot by his brother officers. Captain Ferrer commanded the firing squad that executed the Republican, Captain Gulon, one of the leaders of the ill-fated revolt at Jaca five years ago.

Meanwhile, loyalist columns from San Sebastian and Irun are reported to be converging on General Mola's headquarters at Burgos, while another Government army is advancing westward along the coast and in the mountains.

Another incident was the rescuing by a destroyer of a British family holidaying at a small fishing village. When the villagers saw the vessel arriving to take off the family, they said: "Britain must be a great nation; she has one warship for one family!"—Reuter Special.

No Decisive Victory

Madrid, July 28.

The Spanish civil war has been enjoying a period of quiet. Three important operations are taking place but it is still a matter of days, or possibly hours, before their decisions can be realised.

In the south, rebel columns from the east coast of Spain are advancing on Seville, whose electricity and water supplies have been cut off from Malaga.

In the north, the forces of the loyalists are moving to attack Saragossa, and in the mountains north of Madrid a fierce battle between 12,000 militiamen and General Mola's rebel advance guard continues.

The loyalists, despite the cold and rain, are pushing back the insurgents, who are cutting upon General Mola for assistance. Several deputies and sixty built fighters are among the Government troops, who were visited yesterday by the War Minister, General Castella, and the Communist deputy, "Passion Flower".

Dolores Ibarruri, famous for her perforce Communist oratory, was another visitor.

One of the heroes of the mountain warfare is Captain Pulo Leo, who in a daring expedition blew up a rebel communication dump, causing a terrific retreat of this section of the insurgent army.

Corbado, the next objective of Government troops, was bombed yesterday by aeroplanes.—Reuter.

London, July 28.

In telegrams of congratulation exchanged between the Foreign Secretary and the Turkish Foreign Minister in connection with the conclusion of the new Straits Convention, both statesmen express their conviction that the event marks the opening of a new period of close friendship and co-operation between the United Kingdom and Turkey, which will be most fruitful for the cause of peace.

WIND INCREASES

At 6.30 p.m. here the wind is increasing in velocity and is accompanied by a light rain.

A hundred passenger buses have been rushed to Snake Creek, in the keys region, offering a way of escape to the inhabitants. However, it is reported that few natives desire to leave their homes.

A sixty mile-an-hour gale is approaching Key Largo.

Fowey Rock Lighthouse reports a 60-mile-an-hour gale cutting a 30-mile swathe across the sea and heading for the keys.

It is believed Cape Largo will bear the brunt of the hurricane. There is a fishing community, but is sparsely populated.—United Press.

but complainants were only proceeding on one charge. The Bank did not wish to press the case against defendant too heavily because he had given himself up. Mr. Li said the Bank took into consideration the fact that defendant had been practically brought up in the Bank since 1924. He was still a comparative young man.

Questioned by the Magistrate, defendant replied that he committed the act through unforeseen circumstances. Passing sentence, his Worship said he was taking into account the fact that the Bank did not wish to press the case against him, and that he had given himself up after a considerable period of time. Defendant would go to prison for four months with hard labour.

His Worship also advised defendant to make a new beginning when he came out of goal, and reminded him that it was largely through the Bank that a heavier sentence was not passed on him.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1936.

Mr. Anthony Eden, in his review of British foreign policy,
could not well overlook the
question of the future of
mandated territories, for doubtless this issue will be touched
upon when Germany sees fit to respond to the British questionnaire, a response to which is now long overdue. The British Foreign Secretary frankly confesses that
any idea of transferring mandates from their present holders
to other Powers would raise grave
difficulties, but he does throw out
a hint that something might be done in regard to the question of
freer access to raw materials
produced in mandated territories
and colonies. The British view
is that this latter question might
well be discussed at an international conference under League
of Nations auspices. In taking
this stand, Britain shows a clear
realisation of the basic aspect of
demand by the populations of
the mandated territories for any
change of control, and what is equally to the point, the mandates
are not exercised solely in the interests of the mandatory
Powers. At the same time,
there may be scope for making
the raw materials produced in
these territories more generally
accessible, and Britain is quite prepared that this aspect of the
question, and also its relevance
to certain of her Colonies, should come under sympathetic consideration. When the issue is closely examined it will be seen
that the claims of those who are raising this question could be
met if some satisfactory arrangement on these lines were reached.
There is not, and never has been,
any question of excluding from
these mandated territories settlers from any country, and it
would thus seem that if the purely
economic problem could be adjusted, no necessity for further concessions would arise. It is apparent, however, that even
from this standpoint Britain
could not be expected to be the
only nation to make concessions,
and that is precisely the reason
why the idea of an international conference on the subject has been put forward. The first
necessity, so far as the general
situation is concerned, is that
major European problems should
be disposed of before these exterior issues are raised. Thus
Mr. Eden pleads that with so many other international questions outstanding, there should be
no disposition to introduce at this stage matters which might cause
further differences between the nations. Once there is a general settlement in Europe, other and
less urgent issues can be dealt with in due course. Until then,
it would be most impolitic and

Before you get married—

PROVERBIAL
marriage is a lottery;
and if you marry in
the proverbial manner—
without a thought, but with only an emotion—it certainly
is.

Marriage is also an art, and as such can only be learned in marriage. How then, without marriage—can you judge the potentialities (in that art) of the
one you love?

Psychologists say that the only
true preparation for that art is complete emotional maturity; and
that you are to be considered
emotionally mature if:—

1. you are liked by both sexes;
2. you are reasonably happy
in your job (a woman
should learn a job even if
she intends to marry, they
say);
3. you are emotionally independent of your relatives—
especially neurotic relatives—and can make important decisions without
them;
4. you have a desire to share
the responsibilities as well
as the joys of married companionship and to make the
continuous adjustments
that it requires.

You cannot measure emotional maturity in a paper test; but
you can—once your attention is called to it—observe the first
three points in everyday contacts,
especially when you are visiting
each other's homes.

This questionnaire—frank and
detailed—is drawn up to throw
light on the fourth point; to elicit
your emotional maturity in relation to what you want from marriage, and what you are prepared
to give.

A. Answer first those questions
on which you have clear-cut
opinions, then the others. Its value to you naturally depends on
the honesty you bring to it. If
your love justifies marriage, it
will not balk at the frank reality
of these significant details.

B. Answer the questionnaire
separately, then compare
your answers. Your readiness to do that is in itself a test and
indication of emotional maturity.

C. It will set you thinking and talking.

NOTES OF THE DAY

A centre of spiritual healing
has been opened at Milton Abbey,
which is situated in one of the
most beautiful parts of Dorset-shire. The Abbey was dedicated on June 15 by the Bishop of Sherborne in the presence of more
than a thousand men and women,
including seventy clergymen, who
had come from distant parts of the country to join in a thanksgiving festival to celebrate the launching of this new enterprise.
The Ministry is to be conducted
by the Rev. John Maillard, who
for the past seventeen years has brought physical and spiritual
relief to many sufferers. Milton Abbey comprises an estate of nine hundred acres. Thirty patients
are already under treatment, and after a certain amount of restoration and reconstruction it is hoped
to be able to accommodate about
two hundred. The centre is open
to anyone suffering from mental disorders or bodily ailments and diseases. Plans are in hand for the development of various occupations, in which vital and constructive work may be undertaken,
and patients will be encouraged to
lead normal lives. One section of the Abbey is fitted with modern
electrical appliances, and a staff of trained nurses is to be employed, under the supervision of a resident medical officer. A special convalescent home is to be built,
and a cinema will be erected where
films can be shown for the entertainment and instruction of patients. No public appeal for funds has been made, but a sum
of £20,000 has already been received from private supporters.

ill-advised to press for the solution of problems which might involve the nations concerned in interminable argument and thus
create an atmosphere in no wise
helpful to the consideration of
larger and more pressing issues.

Ask your fiancé (or—ée) these 20 Questions

You are "emotionally mature" if—

you appreciate most in the ideal mate (See Question One):
affection, physical attraction, even temper, love of home and
children.

—If you want most from marriage: affection, physical companionship, a helpmate in your career (if you are a man); children and security (if you are a woman). (See Question Two.)

—If you prefer a 50/50 partnership. (See Question Three.)

—If you prefer the co-operative type of partner; the
man who is neither dominating and paternal nor submissive
and hen-pecked; the woman who is neither a "clinger" nor
Five.)

—If you rate the following points high when choosing a life-partner (see Question Six): affection, physical attraction,
similar interests and tastes, similar views about life, etc.,
desire for children, sufficient means to ensure security.

—If you are on excellent terms with relatives, prefer to have their approval, but are able to make decisions without
them and even against their wishes.

—If you would prefer fewer visits from "in-laws" after
marriage, but would judge them on their merits.

—If you believe that almost any two people can make a
success of marriage if they are determined to.

—If you believe in making clear before marriage: (a)
whether the wife should retain outside interests or not, (b)
how the family income should be controlled and budgeted,
(c) about children.

—If you believe that instinct should be guided by knowledge in the matter of the physical and emotional facts of
marriage (See Question Eighteen.)

1. Ability to earn money;
Ambition;
Affection;
Physical attraction;
A happy-go-lucky nature;
Brains and common-sense;
Love of children;
Love of home.
Tick off those that you believe you possess in average or moderate amount.
Underline those that you believe you possess in less than average amount.
2. What do you want most from marriage? First and second choice.
Security;
Children;
A helpmate in your career;
Affection;
Comfort;
Physical companionship.
If you could have these outside marriage, would you marry?
3. Do you consider marriage should be:—
a... a 50-50 partnership?
b... a 60-40 partnership in which the man dominates?
c... a 40-60 partnership in which the woman has the deciding word?
Which would you prefer?
4. For men. Of these three types of women:—
1... the vivacious, fluffy, clinging type who likes to lean on you;
2... the type who prefers to mother you;
3... the woman who prefers to go 50-50 and is neither dependent nor over motherly.
a... which do you find more
sympathetic?
b... which is the more attractive physically?
c... which would you choose
as a mate if you had not already chosen?
d... in which category would
you place me? (fiancée).
For women.
e... in which category would
you place yourself?
5. For women. Of these three types of men:—
1... the man who wants to dominate women;
2... the charmingly submissive man who wants a woman to boss him;
3... the man who is quite manly, but likes to go 50-50 in co-operating with a woman?
a... which do you find more
sympathetic?
b... which attracts you more physically?
c... which would you choose
as a mate, had you not already chosen?
d... in which category would
you place me? (fiancee).
For men.
e... in which category would
you place yourself?
6. Rate the following points according to their importance in your opinion when choosing a life-partner. Label your choices from 1 to 6.
1. similar interests, tastes,
hobbies, etc.;
2. desire for children;
3. sufficient means or prospects
to ensure security;
4. the man is a few years older;
5. same religion;
6. same race or nationality;
7. the man is taller;
8. similar views about life
and politics;
9. the full approval of parents has been gained;
10. physical attraction;
11. affection;
12. pity of one for the other;
13. mutual comfort and convenience.

7. Do you consider that children
should be welcomed:
a... soon after marriage?
b... after two or three years of
married life?
c... when—and only if—parents can afford it?
One choice.
8. Do you consider it justifiable
to have no children:
a... if there is hereditary
disease in either family?
b... if poverty makes it
difficult to rear them?
c... if either parent does not
wish it?
9. Should children:
a... be compelled to undergo
religious instruction?
b... be urged to?
c... be allowed to if they want
to?
d... have none or be dissuaded
from it?
10. On what terms are you with:
a... your mother?
b... your father?
c... your brothers and sisters?
In each case, are you strongly
attached? On excellent terms?
Indifferent? Unfriendly?
11. How do you genuinely feel towards:
a... your mother-in-law-to-be?
c... your brothers and sisters-
in-law-to-be?
In each case—Strong like? Like
very well? Indifferent or dislike?
12. Do you consider that relatives (including mothers-
in-law) should be seen:
a... often?
b... occasionally?
c... rarely?
d... some often, some rarely?
13. Do you consider that women
after marriage:
a... should retain their job and
complete financial independence if they so wish?
b... should retain a part-time
job if they so wish?
c... should cultivate unpaid
outside interests if they wish?
d... should devote their entire
time to the home and
children?
14. In budgeting for a home
which do you consider better?
1... giving the wife a fixed
allowance and complete
control over it?
2... The husband to scrutinise
bills and petty cash
accounts and hand over
the money as they are
checked?
15. Would you consider it:
a... wise for a husband to insure himself when he marries, if not already insured?
b... reasonable for the wife to
contribute a small amount
from her allowance towards this provision?
16. Do you believe that two people about to marry
should get from their doctors a
clean bill so far as health and suitability for parenthood are concerned.
17. Do you believe that engaged couples should live, in each other's homes for a time to test
out whether they are emotionally
compatible for more than twenty-
four hours at a stretch?
18. Do you believe that:
a... the physical facts of marriage are important, and
the requisite knowledge
should be completed from
books or doctors or a competent adviser?
b... such things should be left
to one's own instinct?
19. Do you believe that divorce
is:
a... never justified?
b... justified if the marriage
makes neither happy?
c... justified only in the last
resort?
20. Do you believe:
a... that almost any two sensible persons can make a
success of their marriage
if they are determined to?
b... that unless they are suited
to each other, their chances are poor?
c... that they must be "spiritual affinities": the only
two for each other in the
world?

PERRY SMOTHERS CRAWFORD TO WIN DAVIS CUP

CUP RETAINED WITH STRAIGHT SETS VICTORY FOR FOURTH YEAR IN SUCCESSION

Great Britain beat Australia by three matches to two at Wimbledon yesterday and so retained the Davis Cup for the fourth successive year. In the final and deciding match of the series, Fred Perry overcame Crawford in three straight sets of 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

But what a gallant fight Australia made for it! Two rubbers down on Saturday they looked certain for a 5-love or 4-1 defeat.

But Quist and Crawford responded wholeheartedly on Monday by winning the doubles and yesterday Quist made a stupendous effort in defeating H. W. Austin in his second singles.

And so the result depended entirely on the last match—Perry v. Crawford—and if the Australian had been meeting anybody else it would have been easy to obtain odds on Australia winning.

But with the irrepressible Perry it was quite a different story, and in accordance with expectations, he smothered Crawford in three sets and so kept the Cup in England for another twelve months.

It is not without interest to note that only once before since the competition started in 1900 has the Davis Cup remained in England for four successive years. Great Britain, then entered as the British Isles won it from 1903 to 1906 inclusive.

United States still holds the record of retaining the trophy for seven years, while France held it for six and Australia for four from 1908 to 1911 inclusive.

PERRY DICTATES

Although Quist's unexpected victory over Austin yesterday had paved the way for a spectacular finish to the series, the concluding match hardly provided the climax expected.

Perry was in such perfect form that he monopolised the court, dictating the terms throughout and winning with comparative ease.

Crawford gave an improved display on the last Saturday, but he was clearly the servant of a tennis magician and scrambled for the few games he collected.

A Reuters telegram says that Perry hit his best form. He varied his pace and length judiciously and smashed with unerring accuracy.

Crawford played as well as Perry would let him. The Australian occasionally scored with a sharply angled volley, but Perry's keen anticipation enabled him to return almost everything.

Perry led 3-1, then 3-2 in the first set, but afterwards sailed along confidently to take the next four games. In the second set the Englishman maintained his leads, going ahead at 3-2 and again for 5-3, while in the third set he was 5-1 ahead.

There were many splendid long rallies in the last set, with Crawford, playing a hopeless uphill game, went all out to prevent a straight sets victory. He scored a break-through to become 3-5, but Perry held his next service for the match and the Davis Cup.

BASELINE CONTEST

Rain delayed the start of the Quist v. Austin match for 90 minutes, and when the players got to grips they engaged in a battle on a similar style, both concentrating on long baseline rallies, says Reuter.

They sent sweeping drives to the corners, waiting for the other man to make errors. Austin drove better than Quist on both halves, but was weak overhead, whereas the Australian smashed brilliantly and served exceedingly well, apart from three double-faults in the second set, which appeared to upset him.

Austin actually led 5-3 in the

Complete Davis Cup Results

The complete results in the Davis Cup Challenge Round just ended were as follows.

H. W. Austin (Great Britain) beat J. H. Crawford (Australia) 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1; lost to A. Quist 4-6, 6-3, 5-7, 3-6.

F. Perry (Great Britain) beat Quist 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2; beat Crawford 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

DOUBLES

Crawford and Quist (Australia) beat G. P. Hughes and C. R. D. Tuckey 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8.

And Is Taken

Golfers everywhere are so much impressed by the virtuosity of Alfred Padgham and all his victories that so far as they are concerned he can rest peacefully on his laurels.

With one exception. Joe Ezar, the American, having viewed Mr. Padgham and read the fulsome praise showered upon his modest head, remains unconvinced.

Ezar has so mastered the intricacies of golf that he has become one of the greatest trick-shot players in the world. He can make a golf ball do almost anything except talk.

This being so, Ezar figures he must have more than an outside chance of surprising the master—and he has challenged Padgham to a match for £40.

What Padgham thinks about it is best expressed by the fact that he has covered the American's £40 and agreed to play him on the Selkirk Park course.

Surrey Invite Hobbs And Hitch To Return For County Cricket Match

London.

Surrey, who were weakened by the calls of the Gentlemen vs. Players match at Lord's upon the services of E. R. T. Holmes, F. R. Brown, Fishlock, and Gover, a week or so ago, made a rather startling move in their efforts to get together a team to meet Warwickshire in the game at the Oval on the same day.

They invited Jack Hobbs, who has not taken a county cricket since 1934, and "Bill" Hitch, the former fast bowler, who is now coach to the Glamorgan club, to turn out for them.

Hobbs declined the invitation, preferring not to reappear in first-class cricket, and Hitch is not likely to accept.

M. J. Turnbull, the Glamorgan secretary-captain, received a letter asking if the Welsh county would release Hitch.

HITCH'S "NO"

Hitch himself stated that he had not played in first-class cricket since 1925.

"I am in my fiftieth year," he said, "and I do not feel that I could do myself justice in a three-day match."

Asked for an explanation of this unusual step, Mr. A. F. Davey, secretary of Surrey, said: "Mr. Holmes apparently thought, from what he had heard, that 'Bill' Hitch could bowl pretty fast for a short time. We have not received a reply from him."

Questioned by a News of the World representative, Mr. Davey said that the Surrey committee thought it a good idea to re-introduce some of the old favourites, "Hobbs and Hitch," he said, "are among the most popular players the county has ever had, and I would have delighted thousands of their admirers once more to see them in action."

Fred Perry and Jack Crawford, who yesterday met in the deciding match of the Davis Cup Challenge Round, snapped after one of their many historic matches. The Englishman emphasised his superiority by once again winning in three sets.

How Miss Jacobs Reached Final

Mrs. Sperling Unimpressive

(By H. S. Scrivenor)

London, July 3. It was almost inevitable that the semi-finals of the women's singles at Wimbledon yesterday should suffer by comparison, both from a speculative and a spectacular point of view, with the two in the men's event, which gave rise to such wonderful and exciting tennis on Wednesday.

In the first place close students of the book were expecting to see Mrs. H. Sperling beat Mrs. R. Mathieu and Miss H. H. Jacobs overcome Miss J. Jedrejowska. And this is what actually happened.

In the second place, the match between Mrs. Sperling and Mrs. Mathieu, which was supposed to be a contest between two of the best of the best, was a rather unimpressive affair.

But I think it may fairly be said that Miss Jacobs proved herself the cleverest and most resourceful player of the four, and that Mrs. Sperling gave further evidence of the fact that she is not the mere showgirl that she is thought to be by so many people.

She gave us a good illustration yesterday of the way in which she can speed up her game when it is fairly safe to do so.

TWICE DEFEATED

She beat Mrs. Mathieu recently in Paris on "the hard stuff," to which Mrs. Mathieu is better accustomed, in the French championships, by 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, in a match which lasted only a minute or two more than an hour, although it contained a good many long and rather wearisome rallies.

In the first set the Frenchwoman, without actually getting the better of the deal, was keeping her end up well and won the fourth game, for 2-2 from 0-40; but two games later she could not clinch a "vantage point" and Mrs. Sperling made it 4-2.

However, Mrs. Mathieu retaliated in the next game, and then had an inopportune fall which compelled her to let Mrs. Sperling reach 40-30 and take that game as well as the next to 15 for the set.

The second set was a quicker affair. Mrs. Sperling got an early winning lead, and was soon driving her opponent to the net in a manner that carried her to 4-0 and out at 6-2. In the last game, Mrs. Mathieu saved two match points but had to yield at "vantage" against her on the third.

POLISH GIRL DISAPPOINTS

In the other match Miss Jedrejowska played disappointingly, but I am inclined to attribute this to the clever manner in which Miss Jacobs tackled her, varying her tactics in accordance with the needs of the situation.

At the outset the Polish girl was playing her valiant, hard-hitting game, which has carried her so far up to now, with success.

Miss Jacobs was hitting hard, too, and I think she was right. At any rate, after leading by 3-2 and being led by 4-3 she won the Jedrejowska service for 4-4, and was still pretty happy. However, the Polish girl at this stage of the proceedings had elected to reduce her pace (that embarrassing brink of success again, don't you think?). Miss Jacobs wisely followed suit, and reverting to her famous twiddle ones, chipped her way to 6-4.

THE LAST CHANCE

Miss Jedrejowska's last chance of holding on more or less vanished when she lost the first two games of the second set after being within a point of 1-1. She won two games on her own service, and then, serving again, with the score at 5-2 she saved a match point before succumbing.

Miss Jacobs has achieved many "engineering" triumphs, and this was one of the best of them. She has already figured unsuccessfully in four Wimbledon finals, and they are, perhaps, worth setting out as follows: v. Miss Helen Wills (as she was then) in 1929; v. Mrs. Moody in 1932; v. Miss D. E. Round in 1934; and v. Mrs. Moody in 1935. Mrs. Sperling reached the final when she was Mrs. Krawinkel, in 1931, against Mrs. Aussem, and was in the semi-final last year when she lost to Miss Jacobs.

INTERPORT BOWLS

12 Names Submitted

At a meeting of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association in the S. C. M. Post Boardroom yesterday the personnel of the Interport Committee was decided and the names of players available for the trip to Shanghai were given.

Mr. C. J. Tatchell was in the chair and others present were: Messrs. C. B. Hosking (Secretary), A. O. Midar (H.C.C.), F. J. Lunny (H.K. Electric), P. E. Knight (C.S.C.C.), J. S. Riddell (Police), H. Overly (H.C.C.), F. X. M. Silva (Recreio), G. Sherriff (K. B. G. C.), J. V. Ramsay (Kowloon Dock), E. el Arculli (C.C.C.) and J. Russell (H.K.F.C.).

On a motion of the Chairman it was decided that the selected team should sail for Shanghai by the Empress of Asia on September 4, as previous correspondence had indicated that the end of September was too late for the games.

It was announced that the following players were available if selected:—F. V. Ribeiro and F. X. M. da Silva (Recreio), A. Hyde Lay (H.C.C.), H. H. Rose (K.B.G.C.), C. S. Rossetti, J. S. Landolt, D. Rummel and W. Ward (C.C.C.), P. E. Knight and F. McGowan, (C.S.C.C.) and L. Glendinning and W. Dall (Police).

The Interport Committee elected comprised Messrs. C. B. Hosking (Secretary), J. Russell, J. V. Ramsay, G. H. Sherriff, E. el Arculli and S. Denoon.

The Secretary reported that A. Hyde Lay had asked for a ruling on

GREATEST EVER MADE BY BRITISH CLUB

London, July 12. Arsenal Football Club last year made a working profit of £36,000. This is the greatest profit ever made by any British club, says the Sunday Dispatch.

The balance-sheet, issued yesterday, shows that this is an increase of roughly £1,000 on the previous year. Gate receipts—the largest source of revenue to the club—total over £81,000 but this takes no account of the percentages received from away matches.

A plea put forward last year by the Sunday Dispatch for a simpler and more open balance-sheet has had no effect.

£10,000 IMPROVEMENTS

Items on the expenditure side are still too cumbersome to arrive at an accurate net profit, though the balance on revenue account is a mere £280. This is after paying £10,000 for ground improvements and £5,000 for income tax.

Actually, the revenue balance should be £10,850, which shows that the club is in a very healthy state financially, since the total capital is only £5,780.

Reserves total £21,000, or more than fourteen times the subscribed capital!

NEW BUILDINGS

Erection of new stands and provision of better accommodation has cost the club £23,320, according to the balance-sheet, but actual expenditure is probably twice this figure.

Arsenal's freehold grounds and stands are valued at £137,549 in the balance-sheet, but this is after £10,000 has been taken from profits to write down the value of the buildings.

This constitutes yet another hidden reserve.

Despite the large undistributed resources of the club, the dividend on the shares is limited to 7½ per cent, which is the maximum allowed by the rules of the F.A.

Through the muddle and omnibus items one gets the impression of a strong financial position and large hidden reserves.

ARSENAL ENCLOSURE

Arsenal's scheme to form a club enclosure is making headway, though old-time supporters of the game may look askance at the venture. There will be 100 members at ten guineas each—the dearest season ticket is five guineas—and these gilded aristocrats will have the exclusive right to the directors' box in the West Stand, passenger lift, refreshment rooms, and American bar. They ought to view the football through rose-tinted spectacles. Guests can be introduced at half a guinea each.

The enclosure is being reconditioned with upholstered rubber-cushioned seats, and glass screens will protect inmates from the gaze of the vulgar proletarians.

A bye-law as to whether he could obtain a substitute for N. J. Bebbington, a member of his entry in the Open Handicap competition, who was in hospital with appendicitis. After reference to the rules the Committee agreed that a substitute, who would play until the end of the competition, was allowable.

The postponement of the semi-final match between F. X. M. da Silva and J. E. Noronha and J. E. Isonson and S. A. Bright was sanctioned by the Committee. The new date fixed was August 5.

"JEWS MAY FLY GERMAN FLAG"

An Olympic Games Manoeuvre

Berlin, July 2. Dr. Goebbels, the Minister for Propaganda, has issued an appeal to the nation to greet the thousands of foreigners expected for the Olympic Games with an "especially brilliant example of German hospitality."

"I am sure," he stated, "that every German will make it a point of honour to be obliging to every foreigner (all of whom are under the protection of the German Reich), and when they require help to render it with advice and deeds."

Jewish shopkeepers have received an official notice informing them that they may fly the German flag during the period of the Games. Among the laws passed at Nuremberg last September was one forbidding Jews to fly the German flag. Its temporary suspension is but one of the measures being taken to persuade the credulous foreign visitor that the Jews are not treated as harshly as reported.

Death Of A Great Tennis Personality

"THE LACOSTE OF CHINA"

(By "Veritas")

News of the death of Khoo Hoo-hye comes as a great shock to the whole tennis fraternity of Hongkong.

Khoo, who was one of the finest players ever produced by China, was a well-known figure on Hongkong courts, often playing here during his various trips between Malaya and Shanghai.

In this connection he will probably be chiefly remembered for his magnificent display against Francisco Aragon, the then Philippines champion, on the Hongkong Cricket Club courts in 1930.

Khoo, who could rightly be described as the Lacoste of Chinese tennis, was without doubt a very talented baseline player. From here he sent over withering drives on both hands, and more than once he drove Hongkong champions off the court by means of these powerful strokes.

For years undoubted champion of Malaya, he subsequently conquered other fields when he visited Shanghai and carried off the singles title on more than one occasion. His dual with Gordon Lum used to be the high-spot of the Shanghai tennis season.

Although it is incorrect to say that Khoo played for China in the Davis Cup (her representatives have been

PLAYERS SAY NO—THEN YES

SO MATCH WASN'T PLAYED

CURIOUS DECISION AT THE K.C.C.

With the players assembled and knocking-up preparatory to starting the match, a heavy shower of rain fell at the K.C.C. yesterday afternoon, sending the C.R.C. and K.C.C. "A" Division league teams scampering back to the pavilion where it was generally agreed that play would be impossible.

However the two captains inspected the courts as soon as the rain had ceased and pronounced them to be unfit.

So for the third time this season, this match was postponed, though, in view of the players' apparent willingness to continue on courts not greatly affected by the rain, it was difficult to understand why exactly the encounter was put off.

I asked one captain and he said the players didn't want to play. I asked the players and they said the captains had decided. It was all very confusing.

ELEMENTS BRAVED

The elements were braved, however, at two other clubs. Down at Causeway Bay, which is notorious for the manner in which the courts remain wet, Chinese Recreation Club second string entertained U.S.I.C., and were beaten 5-3, while at the Hongkong Cricket Club, South China somewhat unexpectedly finished at the losing end of the score, the Cricket Club snatching the odd set.

The deciding set was that between Bathurst and Leys and Wong and Leung, the respective third pairs. The Cricket Club combination won with ease, and with the other two pairs each obtaining a couple of sets, two useful points were earned.

He also played for Shanghai against Hongkong in the 1931 Interport and North, when Shanghai won all five matches. It was in this series that E. C. Fincher dramatically snatched an attack of cramp whilst playing Khoo, the pain being so severe that the Hongkong player had to concede the match.

Possessing a modest and unpretentious personality both on and off the court, Khoo became a popular figure wherever he went. He took victory and defeat alike and was a model of courteous behaviour.
